

Wismer Gloomy Over Track Fight

Sees No Chance Of Government
Intervention In Cancellation

There is no chance of last-minute government intervention in the cancellation of 35 days of horse racing which is scheduled to start at Vancouver's Lansdowne track on Wednesday, Attorney-General Gordon Wismer declared today.

Mr. Wismer said he had gone as far as he could when he named Chief Justice Farris as arbitrator in a dispute between track owners and horse owners over the amounts of purses to be paid.

Auto Industry Plans Layoff Of 12,000 Men

Cars Piling Up As Credit Halts Sales

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's motor industry is planning to lay off more than 12,000 men as a result of what car makers say is a Canada-wide slump in sales resulting from recent credit restrictions.

Many of the workers will be left idle indefinitely.

Ford of Canada, which last week-end cancelled plans for a temporary layoff of 9,000 of its 12,000 production workers, announced Monday at Windsor the 9,000 men will be laid off next Monday or Tuesday.

The entire plant will be shut down during a three-day inventory. When it reopens July 3, it will operate on a curtailed schedule.

Also in Windsor, the truck plant of the Chrysler Corporation laid off 800 of its 900 hourly-rated employees because of a parts shortage blamed on a strike in a Canadian supplier plant.

The new Nash Motors plant in northeast Toronto is reported slowing to a standstill. Another 175 are scheduled to go June 25. In Oshawa, General Motors announced it contemplates no layoffs.

Slide Blocks Tracks

PRINCETON, B.C. (BUP)—The Granby Consolidated Mining & Smelting & Power Co., Ltd., has been forced to stop operations at Copper Mountain and Allenby due to an earth slide on the Canadian Pacific Railway tracks between the two towns.

Chemical Analysis May Test 'Drunken' Drivers

OTTAWA (CP)—The government disclosed today it is tightening the laws against drunken driving by allowing the use of chemical analysis as evidence of intoxication in court trials.

Canada Signs Pact To Rule Troops Abroad

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today Canada has signed an agreement laying down the rules that will govern the forces of any Atlantic Pact country when they are serving in another pact country.

The agreement will affect Canada in two ways. It outlines the laws and regulations that will govern the conduct and rights of American, British, French and other servicemen training here.

JAPS STILL FIGHTING WORLD WAR II

Yanks May 'Invade' Pacific Isle

SAIPAN (UP)—U.S. military and civilian officials planned today an "invasion" of tiny bat and lizard infested Anathan Island to coax 18 Japanese shipwreck survivors into believing the Pacific war really is over. They have been marooned on the island nearly seven years.

They are ruled by a self-proclaimed "lord," Nakagawa Ichiro, a former seaman in the Japanese navy, said to have threatened to kill anyone deserting to the Americans.

The Japanese are known to be armed.

The U.S. "invasion" will be in three stages.

KOREA BOUND MEN RIOT AT WAINWRIGHT

WAINWRIGHT, Alta. (CP)—Soldiers from the Korea force reinforcements training centre here battled with military and R.C.M.P. officers here Monday night.

Mayor James Robinson said 100 panes of glass were broken with stones and some vehicles were damaged. He estimated the rioting group at 100 to 150 soldiers.

Brig. W. J. McGill, camp commandant, however, said probably 30 to 50 soldiers were involved.

A lot of others, he said, pushed to see what was going on. No civilians were involved.

A report a member of the Royal 22nd Regiment had been unfairly arrested by military police touched off the fracas.

Big Contingent Of Canadians Reaches Japan

Destined To Bolster
Commonwealth Forces

TOKYO (BUP)—A large contingent of Canadian troops has arrived in Japan to bolster Commonwealth forces here, it was announced today.

The Canadians arrived recently at Yokohama and were sent to a Commonwealth training camp in Japan. The new troops comprised the largest group of Canadians to arrive in the Far East since May.

The number or identity of the units was withheld for security reasons.

Arrival of the Canadian reinforcements was announced shortly after it was learned that the 29th British Brigade and the Australian Battalion of the 29th Brigade would be replaced sometime this fall in the Commonwealth Division.

U.S. Jets Win In Third Day Of Air Battle

TOKYO (AP)—For the third straight day American pilots today beat Communist airmen in a big jet battle over northwestern Korea.

United States Sabre jets damaged four Russian-type MIG-15's Tuesday as Allied infantry men knocked North Koreans off key ridges on the eastern battlefront. On the sea fronts U.N. warships silenced a challenge by accurate Communist shore batteries.

Twenty-seven Sabre jets battled 30 Red jets Tuesday in the most evenly-matched of the current air fights. They ran their three-day score to six Red jets shot down, 12 damaged.

The battle spread over a wide area around Sonchon, 35 miles from the Manchurian border. It was the deepest recent penetration of Korea by Red jets in force.

The Fifth Air Force did not say, as it usually does, that all Sabre jets returned safely from Tuesday's air battle.

North Koreans opened up with a terrific artillery barrage in an effort to halt Allied infantrymen in the east. But U.N. troops drove ahead two miles in their deepest penetration of that front this year and straightened Allied battle lines.

put ashore a box which contained a letter to each man from the governor of Kanagawa, Japan.

The letter assured the men the Japanese government knew of their plight and that their families wanted them home. Also enclosed were cherry blossoms and photographs of loved ones.

The second stage, now being planned, will be an air force "assault" with showers of leaflets telling the Japanese, "the war is over. Surrender and be taken home."

In the third state, an undisclosed number of ships will appear off Anathan, fire salutes and then head at full speed for the east coast anchorage for a mass landing.

U.S. officials do not know what to expect. A Japanese who surrendered last week when the box was put ashore had 13 knife wounds and a broken back. His condition gave rise to suspicions that "Lord" Ichiro may kill potential deserters among his followers and if necessary defend his kingdom alone.

Big Cash Grants To Universities, CBC Recommended By St. Laurent

50c A Head Proposed To Colleges

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today that the government has decided to ask Parliament at this session to vote federal grants to universities and to approve an interim grant to the CBC.

The grants to universities will amount to approximately 50 cents per capita of the nation's estimated population—about $7,500,000. The total will be divided among the provinces in proportion to their population. Within the provinces the division among the institutions will be in proportion to their enrollment of students at university level.

He did not indicate how much the interim grant to the CBC will total.

The grants will be provided through supplementary estimates to be submitted to the Commons before adjournment of the present session, expected June 30.

(Dr. J. M. Ewing, principal of Victoria College, said today he thought "such colleges as ours" would receive any grants recommended by the Prime Minister. Victoria College while linked academically to U.B.C. and offering two years of university work is the financial responsibility of the Greater Victoria School Board.)

Mr. St. Laurent said in the Commons that the decision to make the grants was reached after preliminary examination of the report of the Royal Commission on Arts and Sciences. Aid to universities and to the CBC were two matters on which it was felt that "interim action should be taken at the present session."

The CBC "has for some time been faced with the serious problem of attempting to meet rising costs from a relatively fixed income," he said.

The matter of changes of a permanent character in legislation covering broadcasting will be left until the fall session of Parliament.

Iran Breaks Off Oil Talks With Britain

TEHRAN (CP)—The Iran government tonight broke off talks with a delegation from the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., trying to rescue something from the decision to nationalize the Iranian oil fields.

Earlier, Premier Mohammed Mossadeq appealed to U.S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady to try to persuade British authorities to co-operate in Iran's nationalization of oil.

The ailing premier called Grady to his bedside for a talk a few hours before what may be the peak of the oil crisis in this sensitive spot at Russia's side door.

London reports said the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. will come forward tonight with an offer of $10,000,000 in answer to Iran's cash demands. This is short of Iran's demands for 75 per cent of the oil profits since March, plus a deposit of the remaining 25 per cent to meet the company's possible compensation claims.

Firemen send streams of water over charred skeleton of fire-razed Hudson Lumber Company mill.

VANDALISM AT SCHOOL SOLVED

VANCOUVER (CP)—For six months police have investigated acts of vandalism at the New Gladstone Junior High School, which caused damage of more than $15,000.

Today, two 16-year-old boys, arrested two weeks ago as leaders of a juvenile arson ring, were blamed for the school vandalism. They were charged with breaking and entering and malicious damage.

One of the worst fires on the records of the Victoria Fire Department in the mill area, the blazing inferno became a potential threat to the entire district before firemen and scores of willing millhands brought it under control.

After a conference with president R. M. Brink, Vancouver, company secretary Brian Brady said that reconstruction work will begin as soon as insurance matters are straightened away.

Time of resumption of operations will hinge on the availability of heavy machinery.

Meanwhile, the cause of the fire was still a mystery today.

The earlier report that it was started by a flash from an electric motor used to drag logs from the water was exploded today when company officials said the men were off for lunch at the time the fire started and no machinery was in operation.

The blaze started in the sawmill, two employee eye-witnesses reported a muffled explosion was followed by the fire that quickly enveloped the building about 12.20.

During the fire, brought under control by 1.15, and throughout the afternoon thousands of persons gathered at the scene.

The mill was reported by fire officials to be the only one in the mill area without a sprinkler system. Mr. Brady said the firm had insurance coverage. He said 40 employees thrown out of work have been absorbed by Manning Lumber Co.

Fire officials said that if there had been a strong wind, the fire might have spread over to Manchester Street and Gorge Road.

Rapid control of the fire was rated as "a good save" by Fire Chief Robert Brindle and Deputy Chief Frank Briers, who lauded the assistance given by Hudson

VITAL NANAIMO BRIDGE RULED UNSAFE, CLOSED

NANAIMO (CP)—Mill Stream Bridge, main artery connecting the city proper with its chief residential district, was ordered closed and barricaded against all traffic today. Condemned as unsafe by city engineers, council inspected the bridge this morning and ordered it closed immediately.

The bridge was at one time Granville Bridge in Vancouver, and was discarded to the side of False Creek where it lay for some years before being bought by Nanaimo. It has done duty here for some 35 years.

A year ago it was condemned for use by buses and trucks and speed for private cars restricted to 10 m.p.h.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

BARONS AND BUREAUCRATS

LONDON.—Once upon a time London was practically all owned by titled families. A couple of hundreds years ago, for instance, one of Lord Portman's ancestors was put on a diet of asses' milk, so he bought up pasture-land to graze his own herd, or flock, or whatever the collective name for asses is.

And those asses grazed on land that is now Oxford Street, Edgeware Road, and the intervening area across to Regent's Park. What was then a peaceful pastoral scene today resounds to the hum of traffic, and is occupied by big stores, cinemas, hotels and offices, all paying fabulous rentals. And when a certain pretty Miss Davis married into the Duke of Westminster's family 350 years ago, her dowry was a farm valued at 4s. a year. Today that farm is Belgrave, the heart of London's society domain, and worth at least £60,000,000, I am told on good authority.

DUCAL SALES

BUT TIMES have changed in more senses than one. Today the ducal landlords are slowly putting their vast holdings in London up for sale. The new Duke of Portman sold 26 acres of his ancestral pasture-land not long ago—to provide for death duties on the last Duke's estate.

Nor is he the only one finding himself in the same boat. And, oddly enough, it is the State that is not only getting the money of the dukes and millionaires, but their properties, too. So much so, that the London County Council is now said to own one-tenth of this great metropolis.

NASH NATIONALIZED

THE ONCE lovely terrace that surrounds Regent's Park—built by John Nash, the famous architect of the Regency period—is occupied by a very different aristocracy than that for which it was built. Where a Duke of Wellington once looked out on the Park, clerks of the Ministry of Fisheries now count the nation's kippers, check them to make sure that they are not consumed in their cellophane covers.

In the palatial mansion where once a lovely Duchess of Durham lived and entertained on the grand scale, the Ministry of Supply now keeps an eye on the doings of all and sundry in this nationalized Britain of today.

GOVERNMENT OFFICES

THESE ARE only two examples of what is going on in the West End, and, indeed, all over London. In my journeyings around I have been astonished at the changes that have taken place in these districts which were once the private preserve of the titled aristocracy.

Where liveried footmen once ran down the steps to open carriage doors obsequiously, in the great halls where flunkies once announced the arrival of ermined earls and coroneted countesses, clerks and stenographers saunter in and out, carrying the manifold forms and reports that are the hallmark of bureaucracy.

MILLIONAIRE'S AVENUE

A FEW DAYS ago I was visiting in Finchley, and passed through The Bishops Avenue. And there I discovered that Mayfair and Belgrave have not the only stately homes that have come down in the social world. For The Bishops Avenue was once known as Millionaires' Avenue.

It was—and not so very long ago, at that—a fabulous row of 35-room mansions and private swimming pools. But the millionaires seem to have vanished, for today there are half a dozen "For Sale" signs along the avenue, and the Government has already taken one over to turn it into a children's home—not that I think that is a "come-down," by any means. Nearby, what was once "The Towers" is now a Council maternity home. But that is how bureaucracy is taking over from aristocracy in this changing London.

The list:

Swing To Right In France After Vote

But New Government Faces Powerful Opposition From Reds, De Gaullists

By JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS (AP)—France's Centre parties withstood the assault from the extreme right and left in the national elections, but their coalition took on a conservative look which led observers to predict today a swing to more private enterprise.

Indian Mother Saves Children From Drowning

Two Indian children are recovering today from shock and exposure in Rest Haven Hospital near Sidney after being rescued by their mother from drowning Thursday in Saanich Inlet off the T'sartlip Indian Reserve, Brentwood.

Mrs. Julie Sam lived in and rescued from the bottom of the inlet in a semi-conscious condition her children, John, 7, and Gregory Sam, 4, who fell overboard from an old canoe in which they were playing. A third boy, Jeffrey Wilson, 11, clinging to the overturned canoe, was also brought to shore safely.

George Charlie, 25-year-old lumber worker, reached the spot in a canoe and helped the mother bring the children aboard.

The Sidney Volunteer Fire Department inhalator crew revived the two youngsters in a few minutes on the beach. Fires were lit on the beach to keep the children warm pending transportation to Rest Haven Hospital for treatment.

The parties which have governed France in a coalition since 1946 came out of Sunday's general elections with 383 of the 608 seats thus far decided. But they still face the opposition of the extreme right, represented by General Charles de Gaulle's strong new party, and of the extreme left, the Communists.

On the basis of the 608 seats decided, the Communists will be cut down to 103 seats. They had 183 in the last Assembly. The de Gaullists will have 112 seats, which means the Centre-party Coalition faces a total of 215 opposition votes. Communists and de Gaullists are bitter enemies, but they have sometimes teamed up in joint opposition to the middle-of-the-road parties.

Some saw in the results a strengthening of the hand of the pro-Americans.

High American officials in Germany predicted the victory of the centre parties would speed formation of a new West German army to join Atlantic Pact defenses and strengthen the adherents of a mild French policy toward West Germany.

The latest figures on the 383 seats credited to the centre parties showed this division:

Socialists	96
M.R.P.	93
Left Republicans	89
Independents and Peasants	103

INSTALL P.A. SYSTEM IN OTTAWA HOUSE

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's Commons is going to follow the example of the mother of parliaments again, this time so members can hear what's said.

Speaker Ross Macdonald told a committee today the Commons chamber should have an amplification or loud-speaker system similar to the one at Westminster, likely by the start of the 1952 session.

Some members have complained for years that they can't hear.

The British system, consists of a number of microphones scattered strategically through the chamber plus amplifiers.

AP Correspondent Goes On Trial Soon

LONDON (AP)—Reports from Prague today said the Czech foreign ministry has informed the U.S. embassy that Associated Press correspondent William Oatis will be placed on trial in a few days.

Oatis, 37, was arrested April 23 on charges of hostile activities toward the Czechoslovak government.

Western sources in Prague speculated that his arrest was designed to set the stage for the trial of Vladimir Clementis, former Communist foreign minister, now in jail on charges of anti-Moscow Titoism.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Palomar's "big eye" has reached 2,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles into space and found vast groups of runaway stars which further support the theory the universe is exploding.

This was reported by Dr. Milton L. Humason, secretary of Mt. Wilson and Palomar observatories. The research is described as the first significant work of the 200-inch Hale telescope outside our own Milky Way. It constitutes a long step toward determining the size and nature of the universe and whether there are more earths and solar systems like ours.

While in the East, Mayor George doubled as Victoria's representative at the International Trade Fair in Toronto and was the only Westerner to speak there.

11,000 At Rites For Fire Victims

Jam Notre Dame Church, Historic Square In Montreal Business Area

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL (CP)—Montrealers, about 11,000 of them, jammed Notre Dame church and historic Place D'Armes in front of it, to pay final, sorrowing tribute today to 35 of the persons who died in Friday's destruction by fire of Ste. Cumegeode Hospice.

About 6,000 were able to get into the twin-spired old church in Montreal's heart of the business district. The rest stood elbow-to-elbow in the square where once Montreal marshalled her militiamen for defense training.

Around and above this Place D'Armes crowd, places of business flew flags at half-mast while inside the church Msgr. Paul-Emile Leger, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Montreal held the special funeral mass, assisted by eight priests.

In the front of the church 150 members of the Grey Nuns order sat in a body. All of the top dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church in Montreal were on hand. Mayor Camillien Houde occupied a seat in the first pew.

At the back of the church several hundred people, unable to gain seats, stood or knelt.

As the bodies reached the street after the service all work had stopped in the large office buildings facing Place D'Armes. Workmen swarmed to office windows and even lined the edges of the roofs to watch the scene.

In his funeral oration, Msgr. Leger said that the victims were an eloquent proof of Christ's warning that death comes as "a thief in the night."

"Solid faith and firm hope are needed to understand the role of suffering and above all to admit that suffering is the visible seal of God's kindness on our lives."

U.S. Seamen's Strike May Be Lengthy Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—American shippers and C.I.O. seamen braced themselves today for a prolonged maritime tie-up that has left scores of vessels idle in Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports.

But on the west coast there was hope for a settlement today between ship-owners and striking radiomen.

Federal mediator Omar Hopkins said in San Francisco Monday night that he was "optimistic" after union and company officials recessed overnight. An official of the C.I.O. American Radio Association said an agreement might come today.

In New York, federal mediators were unsuccessful in new attempts to bring shippers together with delegates from three C.I.O. unions.

The government conciliators planned to meet again this morning with company representatives, and possibly in the afternoon with union officials.

Both sides refused to budge from their original positions Monday as Cyrus S. Ching, chief of the federal mediation and conciliation service, arrived here from Washington to step into the conflict.

Training Cruises For Malahat Men
A two-day cruise to Everett, Wash., aboard the H.M.C.S. Sault Ste. Marie will conclude spring drill and training for the officers and men of the H.M.C.S. Malahat. Summer training will take place on a two-week cruise to Santa Barbara, San Francisco and other California ports July 7.

At a family outing at Brentwood College field Sunday, 200 men and their families watched the Sault Ste. Marie tug-o-war team defeat the Malahat team as the climax of a sports program that included 22 events, starting with the "futures" sprints for three-year-old youngsters.

1,000 Seek Boy Lost In Quebec Bush

ST. GUY, Que. (CP)—Upward of 1,000 men, assisted by army technicians and professional guides, gathered today in the bushland near this backwoods village at the southern confines of Rimouski County in an all-out effort to find alive little Alain Boucher.

Hope that the five-year-old boy, missing since Friday, survives, has lessened but is not gone. Men arrived in bus loads from more than a dozen villages and towns and from as far as Rimouski, 65 miles away.

Technicians and men of the Royal 22nd Regiment came from Quebec with radio equipment. Reserve units of this Lower St. Lawrence region joined them.

The army organized crews of searchers led by guides and sent them 30 miles out in all directions to form a vast circle which would move in gradually towards the point, near the home of settler Paul Boucher, where the boy vanished.

The wives and daughters of settlers in the area, who have turned out thousands of meals since the boy's disappearance four days ago, worked ceaselessly preparing enormous amounts of food—all donated by the Red Cross.

Tougher U.S. Draft Signed
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman today signed a new and tougher law which lowers the draft age to 18½ and allows the induction of 385,000 registrants 19 through 25 who are now deferred.

The law also sets up the framework for a post-emergency universal military training program. Congress would have to pass another law to get it started.

Under the new law the draft age limits are 18½ through 25, as opposed to 19 through 25 under present law. However, each local board must call first all available men 19 and over.

Congressional experts said it will be months or even years before any registrant younger than 19 is inducted.

The present 21-month draft term is stretched to two years.

MARGARET'S MARQUIS WILL WED ANOTHER

LONDON (Reuters)—British newspapers today splashed the engagement of the handsome young Marquis of Blandford—who had been high on the eligible list as Princess Margaret's future husband—not to the princess but to a friend of hers, a commoner.

The 25-year-old marquis will marry Susan Hornby, 21.

The marquis, a captain in the Life Guards, has been considered one of Britain's most eligible young bachelors and often dated the princess. He is heir to one of the country's greatest titles and fortunes.

Miss Hornby was a guest of the Royal family at Windsor Castle during the fashionable Ascot race meeting last week. Her father, Michael Hornby, is a director of W. H. Smith and Son, a chain of bookshops and newsstands.

The Misuse Of Judges

THE CASE OF THAT ABLE JURIST, Chief Justice Sloan, illustrates the misuse of the Canadian judiciary in work for which it was never intended. The Chief Justice has just completed a report on the dispute between two unions at the Trail smelter, where he found himself sitting on a mediation board beside Mr. Harvey Murphy, a distinguished communist, who was educated in Moscow in the arts of revolution. Of course Mr. Sloan had no choice in the matter. He was doing, as usual, his public duties. But our judges should not have to do such duties. That is not what they are appointed or paid for.

The basic principle of our jurisprudence is the complete separation of the judge from government. He is set apart from the legislature and from the executive so that he may take an impartial view of their decisions. If the legislature or the executive wrongs the citizen the judge is there to see that justice is done. The moral power of the courts depends on their complete independence.

It follows that the judge should have nothing to do with the making of the law which he must interpret. He must have no prejudice for or against it, must be concerned only with its meaning.

Directly judges do not make the law. They do not sit in legislatures or cabinets. But more and more Canadian judges have been taken from the bench (often to the damage of their courts) and, at the government's request, have engaged in what is really a political process.

When a judge settles a labor dispute he is not acting as a judge. He is acting in a political capacity. He is doing the business of the state instead of merely reviewing and interpreting it. Or when a judge investigates some social problem and writes a royal commission report he is laying the basis of legislation if, indeed, his report does not become almost word for word the subsequent law passed by the legislature.

Later on, cases based on his decisions as a labor mediator or as a framer of government policy may come before him for decision in his capacity as a judge. He can hardly approach such a case without prejudice, or if he can, no litigant is likely to believe it.

Thus, as has been pointed out in the House of Commons before now, the judiciary of Canada is being increasingly made the handy man of government—and against its own will. Chief Justice Sloan no doubt objected to the long series of investigations which have occupied a large part of his time of recent years while litigants before the Appeal Court were deprived of their right to his services. Like other judges he had no options. The process goes pretty far when the Chief Justice of British Columbia finally has to settle a communist row in Trail along with Mr. Murphy—a row which already has been before the courts and may well come before them again.

The same sort of thing is happening all over the country. Whenever a government, federal or provincial, finds itself in difficulties it calls in a judge to haul it out. This is an easy escape for government. It cannot fail to undermine confidence in the judiciary as a body above all political dispute. And that confidence is the underpinning of the whole democratic system.

Politicians At Work

WHILE IT MAY SEEM TO MANY people that Attorney-General Wismer and Mr. Anscomb already are fighting the next provincial election, these preliminary skirmishes should not be taken too seriously. The coalition will continue, so far as he is concerned, for another two years at least, says Mr. Johnson, and his word as head of the government should be final.

However, Mr. Johnson cannot control the situation entirely. The Conservative party may decide to abandon the coalition on some public issue before the two years are up. Doubtless it is with this possibility in mind that Mr. Wismer and Mr. Anscomb are so busily building political fences, which is a proper part of their job as active politicians.

No doubt leaders of both parties have their own party troubles. There is strong objection to coalition among some Conservatives, who see their party gradually being sapped by its co-operation with the Liberals. A wing of the Liberal Party is eager to go it alone right away. Somehow the insurgents of both parties must be placated with the assurance that, a little later on, they will have a full taste of old-fashioned political battle. If they are patient doubtless they will have their fill in due time.

Meanwhile there is little point in the rather fuzzy theoretical argument in which Messrs. Wismer and Anscomb have been indulging. Mr. Anscomb says hospital insurance is socialism. Mr. Wismer replies that it is the fine fruit of private enterprise. What is and what is not socialism wiser men than these could not say. Hospital insurance, of course, is part of an evolving society which cannot be fitted into any label but assuredly, in its wealth and progress, is the result of free individual initiative, not of state direction.

There is no use in making the practical business of hospital insurance, which an overwhelming majority of the people want, the subject of an ideological debate. And no use either in irritating the troubles of the coalition, which is giving B.C. good government.

One can sympathize with Mr. Wismer and Mr. Anscomb, both of them rightly concerned about the future of their parties and certainly no one is asking them to suppress their views on public affairs. But if the coalition is to last for two years more, or even one year more, they would be wise to cause as little friction as possible.

Assuredly neither of them can want an election at this moment. Both parties need some time yet to consolidate their strength and to educate the public in policies like hospital insurance which have been so widely misrepresented.

For that matter the C.C.F. probably wants an election even less, since it is clearly split down the middle and recently has been forced by its left wing into declarations on foreign policy which a majority of British Columbians will certainly reject, if they understand their meaning.

Letter From Greece

A RESIDENT OF VICTORIA WHO was born in Greece recently received a letter from his former home. It came in an envelope the back of which was entirely covered by ten stamps. Nine of these stamps were worth 400 drachmas each and the tenth was worth 1,000 drachmas. Before the war a drachma was worth 20 cents. At the old rate those stamps would have cost $20. Now they are just enough to carry one light letter. Such is the inflation which the heroic country of Greece has suffered along with the physical devastation of war.

There is something more interesting on the envelope. The 1,000-drachma stamp carries the Greek flag, of course, but also, curiously enough, the flags of Britain, Australia and New Zealand and, under them, the map of Crete. Greece has not forgotten how the soldiers of the commonwealth came to its rescue—vainly, for the moment—in the darkest days of the war when they could ill be spared from the campaign of Africa. Here is a reminder that we have friends, allies and gallant fighters on the very edge of the Iron Curtain.

Canada did not fight in the Greek campaign but it says something for our Canadian civilization when a Greek can become, in Victoria, a good Canadian and rejoice to see his former country pay its little public tribute to its old companions in arms.

Light On Hong Kong

IN HIS RECENT TESTIMONY TO congress Mr. Acheson removed a good deal of misunderstanding about the position of Hong Kong, for which Britain has been too easily blamed. While it is commonly said in the United States that Britain is pouring goods through Hong Kong to communist China, Mr. Acheson showed that in 1950 the American shipments out of that port were far larger than the British. And, it should be added, the United States Government has been vigorously promoting Japan's exports to China.

Actually Britain embargoed shipments of strategic goods out of Hong Kong last July and recently has included rubber in the prohibited list. "As of now," the New York Times concludes, "it is fair to say that Hong Kong is not providing the enemy with aid and comfort."

Mr. Acheson makes another vital point. Hong Kong, he says, "is a point from which a great deal of important work can be done in China. It would be very serious to have that lost to us." Hong Kong in fact is the only democratic outpost along the Chinese coast. It can survive, its people can be supported only by trade with China, from which it gets even its drinking water. If they can no longer trade with it the Chinese communists probably will take Hong Kong, as they could do without a great deal of trouble.

They Die Too Soon

THE NEW CANADIAN OLD AGE pension system will be called "universal." In fact many people will never receive pensions. Most of them will die too soon.

Experts in the United States compile a study they call the Experience Table of Mortality which, from year to year, estimates the average person's life expectancy. It takes an average group of 100,000 people at the age of 10 and discovers that at the age of 18 only 94,089 of them are still living. At the age of 50 there are 69,084 alive. At 60 the survivors are 57,917. And at 70, when the "universal" pension will begin, 38,569 are left.

Since the Canadian figures must correspond pretty accurately with the American, about 38 per cent of the people who pay taxes all their working lives to draw pensions will get the chance to receive them. And while many persons will pay far less into the pension fund than they will take out later on, many others will pay far more than they take out.

This is not an argument against universal pensions. They are designed to protect those lucky enough to survive into old age and unlucky enough to be poor then. In the pension scheme, as in all old age saving, we gamble on the length of our life span.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

I MUST be slipping as a follower of hot news. I had read many weeks ago about Mr. Kenneth Gape of Akron, Ohio, who was left £40,000 in an English will on condition that he'd reside in England. But I missed his reply (till I read it in an out-of-date British weekly). Mr. Gape, it seems, turned down the offer, saying he didn't want to be an English gentleman with nothing to do all day but sit and eat crumpets. The Spectator was a little aghast at this theory about the life of an English gentleman, and pointed out that there also crossword puzzles to be solved all day, not to mention football pools. (I fear this irony may be lost on certain readers across the Atlantic.)

THE PICTURE of a man eating crumpets for breakfast, lunch, and dinner is a fascinating one, if you don't get indigestion easily. And Mr. Gape thought he might have to eat the wretched poultry between meals as well. That would be tedious indeed. I might point out here that "gape" is an old word for "yawn," and I can imagine the gapes of Mr. Gape on eating his tenth or fifteenth crumpet in the forenoon. When Mr. Woodhouse's characters address each other as crumpets, a form of salutation little known outside imaginative fiction, they do not necessarily imply that they dine on little else. But Mr. Gape was misled.

WELL, a crumpet is not a bad thing in the right place and at the right time. At a late tea on a winter evening it can be almost welcome. When I was a child I ate them as a sweet at the end of my supper, with maple syrup on them. I have outgrown such horrible dishes, but I can still eat crumpets at tea all right, and with gratitude. I especially like them with black pepper on them, freshly ground from a little pepper-mill. This is not my own whim. It's a quite conventional food.

I have heard of at least one American who appreciated crumpets. True, she lived in San Francisco, a most cosmopolitan city, where you do not expect to find one point of view predominating at the expense of other points of view. Still, she was thoroughly American herself. She had never traveled, she knew few foreigners, and her knowledge of foreign foods and customs was almost nil. But she was never without a crumpet in the house, and I will tell you why.

ONE DAY she passed a small English bakery and was tempted to buy some crumpets. When she got home she had no idea of how to prepare and serve them. Did one toast or boil or bake them? Were they actually as raw as they seemed in that flabby state? Were they perhaps a form of thick tripe? Were they a battered-down form of dumpling? She was at a loss. After nibbling one raw and hating it, she put them away.

But that night she had a bad earache. Her hot-water bottle was broken. She had no sweet oil to put in her ear. She had no aspirin. She didn't know how to go about making a poultice. Then she suddenly remembered those crumpets. Warming one to a tolerable heat, she then strapped it onto her ear and fell into a grateful slumber. "And since then," she declared, "I wouldn't be without a crumpet in the house." Applied externally, and in a strictly medical sense, she considers the crumpet to be England's gift to science.

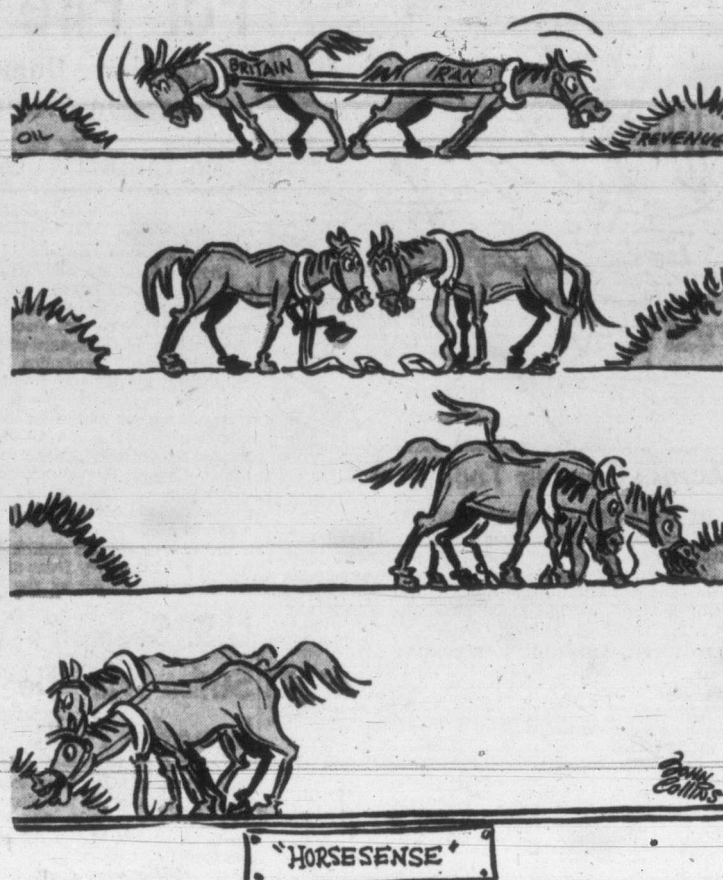

MONKEY BUSINESS I WAS interested to read about the pet-shop monkey who amused the passers-by, on the Boston sidewalks, by sitting in the shop window and swallowing live canaries. (He later tried to swallow a live parrot and got beaten up.) I have a certain sympathy with all clowns. I tried to be one myself, at one period of my career, and found that you often need to go to quite fantastic lengths to get a laugh. But I also have a certain sympathy with canaries. Not that I admire their characters, if any, or their vocalism. Far from it. No. But I once knew a poor little canary whose lot was so unhappy, I've felt sorry for the whole pack of them ever since. Or the whole charm of them, for I believe one speaks of a covey of partridges, just as one speaks of a fall of woodcocks.

THIS PARTICULAR little yellow peril was a chirpy and annoying feather ball that turned up at our house I know not whence. It wasn't the canary my naval brother had to bring home in his cabin all the way from China, for that was the property of his Royal Marine servant who parked the thing on him. (My brother found he could make the bird stop singing, and even coo it, by switching on the 1312 Overture.) Nor was it the canary a kind neighbor wanted to leave with us while she left on some vague journey, for we firmly rejected her offer. No, it must have been the canary we removed from a poor senile relative, lest she murder it the way she murdered her cat... though not in exactly the same way, either, for the cat died by being put out for the night through a high apartment-house window, and you couldn't hurt a canary that way.

WELL, OUR not-very-dear little Dicky stuck around the old homestead for some weeks, and then he began to show signs of shabbiness and dirt. Old Man Wear-and-Tear was beginning to set in. Our Chinese cook was alert enough to notice this himself, and without consulting us he decided to give Richard a good bath. He took a large, coarse cake of Sunlight soap and a huge, rough scrubbing brush (built for tough floors) and he scrubbed that little canary till it knew who was boss around there. Then he rinsed it under several taps of hot and cold water. After that, the canary didn't seem to rally round the way it should, so the cook decided it needed artificial drying, to assist Nature. Whereupon, I am sorry to say, he popped it into the oven. That's why I have never really been able to laugh at canaries since... not the way they should be laughed at. Scrubbed canary is a horrible sight, but roast canary is worse, if anything. Scrubbed AND roasted is worst of all.

Famous last words, "It's the truth, but don't quote me."

WAGE NEGOTIATIONS

What sort of sinister business are the James Bay racketeers up to now? I refer to their request that the wage offer to the civil servant be kept a secret from not only the general public but from the civil servants themselves. They are trying to hide something or are ashamed of the offer.

Johnson-Anscomb et al should be reminded that the civil servants are the employees of the people of B.C., not of the cabinet, and the wage offer should be openly disclosed.

I would like to see the Times take the government to task over this matter. F. V. SUTTON.

ON THE RACK

Your correspondent "Historian" needs to brush up on history.

What could the communists do "1,000 times more cruel" than putting a person on the rack and slowly pulling every bone out of joint, etc., as the Roman Catholics did, to people who doubted, before the religious revolution broke their power over the minds and bodies of men.

WEATHER FORECASTS May 28th Times J. B. pokes fun, or tries to, at our "Weather Man," Mr. Mackie, at Gonzales Hill, just as others have done before. It only shows how little J.B. and many others know about the intricacies of forecasting weather.

I don't claim to know much about it myself, but having worked at the Meteorological and Meteorological Observatory at Batavia, Java—then the Dutch East Indies—between 1905 and 1917, I know something about the difficulties involved. As "the pains in my grand-father's joints" are concerned, I know about those in my own joints, especially in my left hip—sciatica—from which I suffered for 18 years. I could at that time forecast 12 to 24 hours ahead any change in the weather for the worse; coming rain, snow, wind, fog, anything of that kind.

But I lost that kind of forecast ability by learning to chew my food properly, when I was 41 years old; at the same time getting rid of the pains and the sciatica; and that is now nearly 36 years ago!

DELINQUENT ADULTS

This Council in session on Thursday, deliberated at great length on the problem of juvenile delinquency (so-called). It is our hope that you will see fit to co-operate with us in placing this problem so squarely in front of the people that they will not only recognize it for the menace that it is, but also will be aroused to take any action necessary in its solution.

It is our opinion that juvenile delinquency is a sugar-coated way of saying that the adult in general, parents in particular, having been tested by the youth are found in too many respects wanting in those characteristics that we desire in your youth, and criticize them for not having, not only in the matter of an example of good living, but also in the equally important matters of control and guidance.

It is our hope that you and other allied agencies will meet with us in an effort to guarantee that there is no repetition of, among other things, zoo-suiters versus the Armed Forces, which we feel brought disgrace to the whole of Greater Victoria recently. If you consider this worthwhile, and I sincerely hope that you do, would you kindly make known to us your interest that we might call a meeting so as to marshal our forces.

DICK REEVE, President. Recreation Council of Greater Victoria.

Where Railway Meets Tidewater

PRINCE RUPERT.—It was a fine, clear day as we pulled into Prince Rupert—hardly raining at all. One hundred and fifty guests of the Columbia Cellulose Company had arrived on the Ss. Prince George to attend the official opening of the new pulp plant, located nine miles away on Watson Island. But first they enjoyed the hospitality of the city, and judging by the reception, Prince Rupert has been welcoming visitors for a long, long time.

Twelve thousand people live in this northern port, itself on an island. During the war it was an important assembly point for men and armaments moving to Alaska.

"The stuff would roll in on freight cars till the streets were jammed with it," Bob Parker, the local Ford dealer recalls. "Trucks, jeeps, supplies of all kinds were stacked all over town. Then they'd start loading at the dock, and before you knew it it had all disappeared again."

Local residents believe that this strategic position, linking continental rail lines with salt water, will mean a lot in their peacetime future too, as the great north country develops its industrial life. Part of that life will be the big pulp plant which has just opened at their back door. But a good part will always be the old-established fishing industry.

COLD TREATMENT

A look at the huge cold storage plant here gives you a hint of the extent of this resource. While we watched, halibut fresh from the sea were dumped into boxes, covered with crushed ice, nailed up and started on their long rail journey to New York. Around us in vast storage rooms were nearly 12 million pounds of halibut, stiff as boards and stacked like cordwood. Workers, bundled in sweaters and heavy mitts, were handling the glazed white fish in coldrooms, as cut off from the mild weather outside as though they were at the north pole.

For an area that has no roads to speak of—at least the less said about some of them the better—Prince Rupert has a surprising number of cars, and a good many of them are new models. There are 1,400 registrations in the city, with only local streets and the new 94-mile highway to Terrace on which to drive them.

"We ride even if we're only going a block," Parker says. His friend, Ted Smith, local wholesale produce merchant, gives a clue to the answer. Local folk, he says, call them "mechanized umbrellas."

GOOD MUSIC

A pleasant feature for visitors here is the Indian bands, which have exchanged the tomahawk for the equally lethal saxophone. As a matter of fact, they play extremely well, and two 40-piece groups—the Grenville Concert Band and the Alaynash Silver Harmonic Band—which entertained the tour party at the docks and at the pulp plant, drew hearty applause.

In former years there were a dozen of these organizations in the nearby Indian communities, fully equipped and uniformed through their own efforts, and proud of their prowess. Nowadays there are fewer bands, but they still raise high enthusiasm in competitive playing at the annual fair.

The Indian musicians have become so much a part of Prince Rupert life that nobody remembers exactly how they came into being. It appears, however, that well before the turn of the century a missionary provided some instruments and instruction for the musically-minded natives, and their smartly dressed grandsons are carrying on the tradition. They play for civic functions, village gatherings and their own amusement. An Indian wedding party a few days ago marched the length of the main street with a band in attendance. It was a send-off which any couple might envy. —B.A.T.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"WELL," said the Elevator Man, "they're getting around to it at last. Hypnosis, I mean. I see where dentists are going to hypnotize their patients so they won't feel the drill or the forceps. In fact, some of them are talking of going a step further and persuading the victims that the dentist's chair is the most comfortable and the happiest place on earth. Tooth parlors will echo with the merry laughter of sufferers. An aching molar will merely tickle them. The wide-open mouth, crammed with tools, will emit gurgles of joy instead of moans. That is, if the hypnotism works. It would be tough to wake up in the middle of it. But this should be a great thing. Nice for the dentists, too. Can't you just hear him giving the anaesthetic? 'You are getting drowsy. You are very happy to be here. You love the dentist's office. You love to have teeth pulled. You will love my bill... Going up!'"

"But," said the Elevator Man, "the dentists aren't the first in the field. Not by a long shot. All through the ages people have been hypnotized to make them think they're happier than they are. It wasn't always successful. Coming down to our own times, Hitler made a good stab at the job. He told the German people, 'You are getting drowsy. You are happy to have me to boss you. You love the state more than anything. You believe I am the state... Mussolini got in on the act, too. And then Stalin: 'You are getting drowsy. You are happy to have me boss you. You love the state... etc. Then they get busy with the ideological drill and the political forceps. Lower main!"

"Of course," said the Elevator Man, "hypnotism isn't always done by someone else. Sometimes it's an inside job. We've got a lot of pompous fellows around right now who've hypnotized themselves into thinking they're quite somebody. It makes them fair game for the jokesters. They might feel a tooth being pulled, but they can't tell when their leg is being pulled. I guess that's the real test for hypnosis. If you can tell when you're being kidded, you're still awake."

DEAR SIR (Hamish wrote from Calgary) you will be sorry to hear that Little Augie will not be visiting you on your island, and so I guess you will have to be content with Col. S. Skeffington Smuts (Ret.) and me.

"Come here, come here!" I shouted wildly to my wife when I read this. "I think Little Augie's been bumped off!" As I read further into Hamish's letter I realized it wasn't quite as permanent as that. Nevertheless, if Little Augie wasn't coming to the island, that was something, because Little Augie from Chicago used to operate an illegal drinking establishment Back East—according to the rumors I've heard, that is—and he is not quite the type I would like to have accompanying me to the regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association.

We arrived in Winnipeg (Hamish continued) on time. There was a small ceremony at the station when the vice-president of the railroad presented the conductor and engineer of our train with gold watches for something he called "beyond the call of duty," and the passenger representative who had been sent to Fort William to look after us, was "led from the station by two men in white coats. Although it was quite a hot day, I think the poor fellow must have taken a chill because he was all wrapped up—even his arms."

Winnipeg is an interesting city but quite flat. The streets are very wide, which is a good thing, I understand, because in winter they give the car drivers more room to avoid the pedestrians who have been quick-frozen between curbs. Of course, most of these have been thawed out by now, although up to last week there was still one elderly gentleman who had been at the corner of Portage and Main since October '50. Fortunately he got under way last Tuesday. He opened his coat and was blown across the street.

Winnipeg is held in place by two rivers. The Red River and the Assiniboine, and the Assiniboine is redder than the Red.

We didn't stay very long, however, because a man from the railroad came to the train and said his company would cheerfully refund the full value of our tickets if we would travel the rest of our journey by air.

So, when you get this, the Colonel and I will be in Calgary—which, I understand, is the Real West and the Last Frontier—and from there we will go by bus to beautiful Banff and Lake Louise where the bridal suite is ready for us. After that we will carry on to the Coast, and I hope you won't be too impatient, and please see that my puppet is erected in a shady spot facing the south and that there is plenty of curried rice for the Colonel.

And now I must tell you about Little Augie. You know his business was ruined Back East, on account of all the cocktail bars in Quebec and Ontario, and he thought he would be able to make a fresh start in B.C., considering the liquor laws out there and Little Augie being in the blind-pig business. Well, he went uptown in Winnipeg and he came rushing back with his eyes shining and tears of joy running down his cheeks, and he said he wouldn't have to travel any further. Manitoba has laws that are practically the same as B.C., so he can get up business right here in Winnipeg, and he said to me: "Confidentially, pal, I also heard these Winnipeggers drink more."

So Little Augie is very happy now, except that he regrets he won't be able to be your guest. Business first, I suppose. Well, the Colonel is Ret. and I lost my job as assistant janitor of your old apartment house Back East, so there isn't any problem there. The Colonel is bringing a pudding for Christmas. It was sent to him by a "little gel" he used to know Somewhere East of Suez, who must be quite a big gel now because the Colonel hasn't been out there in 35 years. He also wants to know if you have any horses on the island. If not, he will pick one up in Calgary, because they have them there for something they call a Stampede, and the Colonel refuses to travel any further in the West without a horse. Keep the home fires burning.

Say French Vote Victory For Reds

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press today interpreted the French election results as a serious defeat for "French reactionaries and their American bosses."

Pravda said the elections confirmed that the French Communist Party "is the first party in France."

(The Communists won 22.2 per cent of the popular vote—more than any other party—compared with 26.6 per cent chalked up by the Communists in the 1946 elections.)

HOME GARDEN

by Jack Beasly

There are thousands of factories in this district which operate without smoke or cinder nuisance.

Each leaf on a plant resembles a factory in carrying out the wonderful process known as photosynthesis, a process whereby the most common weed can beat all the chemists in the world by manufacturing starch from two simple substances, carbonic acid and water.

The plant's factory consists of a number of small rooms (cells) in each of which are many workers called chlorophyll grains. The raw materials, carbonic acid gas, are taken in from the air, and water, taken in by the roots, are supplied to each room. Before these raw materials can be made into food they must be split into their component parts, i.e. carbon and oxygen in the case of the gas, and hydrogen and oxygen in the case of water.

A great deal of energy is required for this work, and the plant has neither steam, electricity, or gasoline, so it uses the energy put out by the sun in the form of light. The machinery in the factory is the green coloring matter, chlorophyll, which harnesses the sun's rays and puts them to work splitting the raw materials ready for use.

The factory starts work immediately the sun rises, and it stops when the sun goes down. As soon as some raw material has been prepared the workers convert it into sugar, a simple compound of carbon, hydrogen, and oxygen. This soluble product accumulates and gets in the way, so the chlorophyll grains convert it into starch, in which form it is not soluble in cell sap and can be kept in storage.

After the factory ceases work the storage rooms must be cleared ready for the next day's output, so during the night the material is taken from the leaves and moved to parts which are growing rapidly and need lots of food, or to large storehouses such as tubers.

As in most industries, there is a by-product which is oxygen, and on a sunny day when the factories are working to full capacity, you can see the oxygen bubbles rising to the surface from submerged water plants.

Half-Hour Parking Issue Divides City Committee

Would a half-hour parking limit drive business from the city or draw it in?

Ald. Percy Scurrell at the city's traffic committee meeting Monday indicated he would battle against half-hour parking.

"Not so," interjected Ald. Mooney. "It would bring people to town."

Ald. Scurrell replied: "Hmhmhm... one man has asked me already why we don't put gates on the streets and keep cars out of town altogether."

Restricted parking is just around the corner for Douglas Street near the Fountain. Traffic surveyor Robert Doble recommended one-hour parking. Sgt. Brooke Douglass of the police department's traffic division suggested two-hour parking.

Drivers who inch their cars forward to erase chalk marks on their wheels may find themselves before the magistrate.

The city's traffic committee learned from city solicitor Arthur Patton that a car must be moved from its parking place altogether when the time limit expires.

Ned Carson had been tidying up. He was collecting glasses and wiping the tables clean when Jervis walked in. He looked up with inquiring affability as the newcomer came towards him.

"Evening, sir," he said. "I'm sorry—but we're just closing."

"I'm looking for a lady—a Miss Merridew."

"Oh!"—he gave a nod of recognition, and setting down his tray of glasses on the bar, rested his elbow there. "They all left some time ago, sir—Madame Benedine's girls."

"Did you see her go out?"

The face of the saloon keeper itself betrayed a gathering anxiety.

"Can't recollect that. She must have been one of the first to leave, I reckon."

"So you couldn't say if she left alone?"

Ned Carson caught some of the young man's fear behind the question. He shook his head. "Wish I could help you, stranger."

"Do you remember seeing her with anyone... any particular man you could describe?"

Again he shook his head. "They dance with so many in a night—especially Saturdays. I've been too busy to take much notice."

Ned Carson puckered his brows. She was a nice girl, Miss Merridew. Not the kind who would do that sort of thing. He spotted, with surprise, an American dollar bill on top of the bar, and picked it up. "Didn't put that there, sir, did you?"

"No."

He opened the drawer of his till. There seemed nothing for it but to seek out Madame Benedine, or perhaps...

"Blow me, sir...!" Ned Carson did not look up as he spoke. His eyes were on a small piece of paper he had found in the till drawer. He read it, solemn-faced and anxious. Then he passed it in silence over the bar counter. Jervis read it quickly, his lips closing tightly as he did so.

She had borrowed Carson's revolver. She had gone with a man called Jake Larrett to Siwash Creek...

"No use pretending that doesn't sound like trouble, sir," Carson said. "I can ride round and tell the Commissioner. He'd better come on up there..."

Braid was shaking his head. "Leave the Commissioner out of this affair—for now, at any rate. This is my job. And I'm going to ask you to trust me enough to do two other things for me..."

The two men studied each other.

briefly, urgently, under the lamp-light. The blurred chatter of the few remaining customers at the other two tables still continued. It seemed remote and totally unreal. Ned Carson had learned, in this saloon in Barkerville, to judge character quickly. He made a quick judgment now. And he decided that he was prepared to trust this man, even before Jervis said to him, with a strangely tense quietness: "This girl's safety means a great deal to me. I want you to tell me where Siwash Creek is, and help me get a horse. Then I want to ask you to take an urgent message down to Miss Murray."

Ned Carson was going to help. "It'll be twenty minutes of hard riding to the Creek," he said, "but I can get you a good horse—my own. And if you'll tell me how to put it to Miss Murray..."

Jervis wrung his hand, then put on his hat again.

Ned Carson said: "Come out into the back with me"—and then, as an afterthought, "Damn it, sir—I haven't even got your name!"

"Sorry! I hadn't realized that either. The name is Braid—Jervis Braid, of Victoria."

IT WAS NO 'WOLF' Shoot Bear In City

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP)—Many folks thought 10-year-old Dale Landrum was hollering "wolf" when he spied a bear within the city limits here Monday.

Dale sounded an alarm, dashing about and yelling. Nobody paid much attention, until they saw Mr. Bruin themselves.

Then pandemonium broke loose. Citizens began chasing the animal over fences and down back alleys. Mr. Bear climbed a tree. That was where police and firemen held a conference.

They finally decided to shoot the bear, instead of trying to rope it for the local zoo, "because we were afraid the rope might miss and cause the bear to run headlong through the crowd."

A policeman delivered the coup de grace with his service revolver.

Mindszenty's Successor Faces Trial In Hungary

Indicted With Eight Others, All Said To Have Confessed To Anti-Government Plotting

By ENDRE MARTON

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Archbishop Boszsep Grosz, 64, highest ranking Roman Catholic prelate in Hungary since the imprisonment of Jozseph Cardinal Mindszenty, goes on trial Friday on charges of plotting against the Communist government, black market currency dealings, helping persons to flee this country and other offenses.

This was announced in the Budapest press today, in a government indictment against the Archbishop and eight others. The indictment said all "confessed."

Among the others is Dr. Elajos Pongracz, a Hungarian employee of the United States Information Service in Budapest.

Pongracz, 42, was arrested a month ago. The appearance of his name among those of the defendants makes it clear that the "legation of an imperialist power" mentioned in the indictment many times, is the American legation here.

The other defendants are three high-ranking monks of a religious order dissolved last

Plan Ready; But No Money

"The ridiculously low appropriation of $5,000 for traffic control—as against the $21,000 requested—makes it impossible to plan intelligently for Victoria's present needs," Sgt. Brooke Douglass told the city traffic committee Monday.

A plan of improved signals was put before the committee, including corner signals at Government and Fort, and Yates and Johnson, with the present centre signals being moved to Bay and Government and Douglas and Rock Bay; an overhead signal for Pandora and Fernwood, and sidewalk signals for Douglas and Herald and Douglas and Comorant.

Cost of the whole plan was $10,555. It could be applied in whole or in part, Sgt. Douglass said, but not on the present appropriation.

F"99"

New Swiss Discovery

for Eczemas, Boils, Psoriasis, Leg Ulcers

THE DISCOVERY of one of the main causes of skin diseases will bring new health and happiness to thousands of people suffering from Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers, and Psoriasis. Science has established that the lack of unsaturated fatty acids in nutrition reduces the natural resistance of the body and leads to skin disease. As this precious substance—so essential to skin health—is often completely absent in modern food, the number of skin sufferers in all civilized countries has a tendency to increase every year.

Remarkable Discovery

A Swiss chemist, Dr. W. Schmitz, succeeded after 10 years of research work in extracting from pure, specially selected vegetable oils an unsaturated fatty acid with a concentration of 99%, and therefore named F"99". Thanks to this very high purity which was never attained up to now, F"99" is so readily digested by the stomach and absorbed into the blood-stream that it has a decisive biological activity in the treatment of skin diseases. Its remarkable efficiency has astonished even Skin Specialists of international reputation.

New, natural way to clear up skin troubles

F"99" is not a synthetic drug but a concentrate of natural nutritive substances which Science has recognized as being essential to health. It is absolutely harmless and may be given safely even to infants.

As its name suggests, the F"99" Two-Way Treatment acts both internally (capsules or liquid) and externally (ointment). While F"99" Ointment treats the external visible symptoms of the ailment, F"99" capsules give the body the power to suppress the cause and to combat successfully Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and even Psoriasis. To many thousands of skin sufferers all over the world, F"99" Two-Way Treatment has already proved its tremendous value. It is being used with remarkable results on cases where all ordinary treatments have failed.

Illustrated F"99" Booklet containing all the interesting facts concerning this remarkable new Swiss Discovery which brings new hope to all skin sufferers, can be obtained free of charge from any druggist or by sending your name and address to Ditta-Laboratories, Dept. 227 P.O. One of the popular sporting pastimes which is indulged in quietly but continually by The Mere Male is known as "Torturing Your Wife." Mere Males who, ordinarily appear to be sedentary individuals, are at their very athletic best in this popular sport. The equipment consists only of a family automobile and a ready criticism. To play the game successfully, it is necessary only to put The Wife behind the wheel of the automobile while The

Coleman

Mere Male sits in the seat to the right of the driver. The Mere Male usually is composed and genial when the automobile is being driven by any comely female—even if the female happens to be someone else's wife. But, The Mere Male is red-hot to a cringing neurotic when the automobile is being driven by his own wife.

The correct manner in which to open this game is to leap up from the breakfast table, wipe the egg drips from your cravat and say: "Darling—how about taking the car and dropping me off at the office."

This subtle approach is quite enough to give The Old Battle a false sense of security. Bubbling with the prospect of having the car for the remainder of the day, she will leave the car in her housecoat and old stable-shoes, pausing barely to give herself a fresh dab of lipstick.

As soon as she pulls out into the heavy early-morning traffic, she rather forcibly on the arm and snarl: "For goshakes, don't you ever bother to make a hand-signal when you're pulling into a line of traffic?"

Nine times out of ten, she will offer some feeble excuse which can be brushed off with a remark such as: "Don't do so much talking—just keep your blankety-blank eyes on the road."

As she grinds the gears, while trying to pull away on the green light, simply sigh again (louder than before) and light a cigar. Be sure to close the windows when lighting the cigar. Before she has gone 50 yards, she will attempt to open the window on HER side of the car.

Behold The Male Animal

"Don't do that," you snap. "Keep your hands on the wheel in this heavy traffic. Keep your eyes on the road and your hands on the wheel."

Enraged, now, she'll pull the car into the curb and park it, shoving the brakes to the floor. Permit your head to bump the windshield and then open your own door, rush round the car and stand facing her with the veins standing out on your forehead. "Out of that seat," you roar at her. "You couldn't drive a kiddy-car without hitting something. Here I've given you the best years of my life but you want to kill me on my way to the office."

This will arouse her fighting blood.

"Get back on your own seat," she'll snarl. "You asked me to drive you to the office and, so help me, I will drive you."

It is wise then to give an apologetic shrug in the direction of other motorists who have been watching this tete a tete. Climb back into the passenger's seat and, for the next couple of miles, the strategy is to refrain from uttering a word.

Grounds For Divorce

It is much better only to wheeze, sigh and cringe at every crossing from this point forward. The sighs should be every for critical moments. When you see that her nerves are cracking, strike yourself across the brow and gasp, in addition to sighing.

With blood spurting from her clenched fingers, she'll turn to you and rasp: "If you do that once more, I'll hit you over the head with my shoe."

Just look at her innocently and exclaim, in injured innocence: "Why, I didn't say a word!"

Ah—that's usually enough for her! She'll run right into the back of a big truck at the next red light.

Jump right out of the car. Rush up to the truck driver before he has a chance to speak. Take him back to within easy earshot of your wife and then say, confidentially: "Just send the bill, old man. It was my wife's fault entirely. She doesn't know how to drive very well."

Tried it on my own wife this morning.

Her lawyer phoned me a few minutes ago. He says that, as part of the separation agreement, she wants all the family property except the family car.

HENDRY WRESTLES DUNNETT

Softballers In Small

War As Millmen Beaten

A small scale riot broke out in the bottom of the eighth inning at last night's senior "A" men's softball game at Central Park, and after the dust had cleared

Butler's Aces managed to hold on long enough to eke out an 11-9 win over a never-say-die B.C. Forest Products team.

Umpire Murray Dunnett, who was subbing for Barney Barnswell, touched off the battle when he called George Brown of the Millmen out on a close play at first base.

Players poured over the Forest Products bench and rushed for Dunnett, who got quite a going over from Manager Wally Smith and his charges.

After things had quieted down and Jim Ireland along with Wally Smith had got the heave-ho from the contest, the losers' infield started a warm-up.

HENDRY BOUNCED

Don Hendry let go with a wild throw at first and Dunnett figured he was aiming for him and promptly ordered Hendry from the game.

Then the fun began. Hendry roared across the infield and wrestled Dunnett into the dust. Spectators, officials and players on both teams all got into the melee.

One old gentleman took after Dunnett and shoved him around a bit and when they quieted him down, plate umpire Harry Holness ordered him from the park.

FINAL RALLY FAILS

Forest Products had to field a make-shift team for the final inning as they trailed 10-6 after the five-run outburst in the eighth.

Bates scored on King's hit and Munro, Jackson and Bishop walked with Joe Travis beating out an infield hit to keep the rally alive. This put the Millmen within striking distance on an 11-9 score with the bases loaded.

However, their hopes were short-lived when Brown ended the contest by fouling out to Ronnie Benn.

Up until the riotous inning the Aces were practically in as they

The Victoria Lawn Tennis Club open championships went into their fourth day today with a total of 20 matches scheduled for this afternoon and this evening.

'BRING SPECS' TO TRACK MEET

Officials of the Y.M.C.A. centennial track meet warned spectators to bring their own glasses or visors to the Victoria High School Stadium tonight at 7, when the meet gets under way.

Highlights of Monday night's play found Dick Praul and Gordie Hartley close to achieving a major upset in their doubles game with the highly-favored seeded pair of Rex Jackson and Jim McArthur.

The Praul-Hartley team had two set points in the first set before bowing at 11-9. The second set went to 6-4.

Capitanos Take First Of Series From Tribe

Vancouver Capitanos got away on the right foot last night in their eight-game series with Spokane Indians—a series which may dictate which team might be headed for the Western International League pennant.

The Caps banged out 13 hits, including homers by Dick Sinovio and Gord Brunswick, to post a 10-5 victory. They were never in trouble after the fourth, when they took an 8-1 lead. With the win, Vancouver boosted its lead over Spokane to 3½ games.

In the other game of the night, Tillamums ran riot to mark up a 14-3 rout of the short-handed Navy club.

Substitute goalkeeper Dickson had nothing but trouble in the tars' citadel and coach Tom Carney donned a uniform in the second half, taking over a defense position which he handled well.

A Hudson with three goals and one assist, Jack Moffatt with two goals and a pair of assists led the Tillamums scorers. Tommy Halbert, playing an excellent attacking game for Navy scored a pair.

Next Monday, Jokers will play Tillamums at 7:30 and Foul Bay and Navy will meet at 9.

Jokers Fade As Bays Take Overtime Battle

After blowing a 3-0 lead, Jokers were defeated 6-3 in overtime last night by front-running Foul Bay in a senior B lacrosse game at the Arena. It was the first overtime game of the season.

Two goals by Cliff Scroggie and a singleton by Bill Stinson gave the Jokers the lead early in the second quarter. Elmer Mathews notched one in the second to put the Bays in contention and markers by Wilt Scott and Jim Ranson squared the game at the five-minute point of the third frame.

Neither team could put up an attack in the fourth quarter and regulation time ended with the score knotted at 3-3.

Frank Gower of Bays scored the tie-breaking goal at the 2:30 mark of the first five-minute overtime frame. Ranson added an insurance goal as he scored while losers were a man short.

Midway through the second extra stanza, Mathews was in front of the Jokers net waiting for a pass, having eluded his check. Jim Heatherington, fiery goal of Jokers, took exception to Mathews' presence and started a wrestling match. Mathews was awarded a penalty shot and beat Heatherington cleanly.

A total of 16 penalties were handed out as both teams carried their sticks high and used them with abandon.

Foul Bay sorely missed the presence of Larry Booth who, having played five games with Shamrocks is ineligible for senior B competition.

ROCKS FACE COMBOS IN WEDNESDAY TEST

High-Scoring Mainlanders Only Club With Edge On Locals; Browning Tied For Point Lead

Shamrocks will play their toughest foe tomorrow night at the Memorial Arena.

The only club to hold a winning edge on the Rocks, Vancouver Combines will be out to make it three out of four over the Irish. Combines won the first two meetings between the two teams and Rocks took the third.

The game will feature five out of the top six scorers of the league, Rocks having three men in the top half-dozen and Combines two.

TIED FOR LEAD

Archie Browning of the Rocks and Archie Anderson of Combines are currently tied for scoring leadership, each having 37 points.

Browning's mates, Archie Severn and Norm Baker, are right behind with 36 and 35 points, respectively. Harry Buchanan of Combines is in fourth place with 30 points.

Anderson and Buchanan will have a chance to add to their point totals tonight when Combines play the last-place Nanaimo Native Sons at Vancouver.

Bill Andrews, who will miss tomorrow night's game because of a shoulder injury, is still the big man among the netminders with his .75 percentage. Andrews' mark is one point better than the average of New Westminster's Harry Preston.

On Friday, the Rocks will play North Shore Indians at the Vancouver Forum. The Indians are at present trying to claw their way out of third-place tie with Combines.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

Quite an interesting week-end, wasn't it? First off the reel the A's lost a couple of games to the Spokane Indians—a feat that shouldn't cause undue alarm because the A's have a habit of losing games to the Indians, who will win the W.I.L. pennant or manager Alan Strange's name isn't John Marshall.

With due respect to Dick Barrett, don't be at all surprised if a pleased Mr. Marshall starts winning ball games from here on in. Big John wasn't happy with Victoria this year and pitched like it. And watch that waistline get whittled down to size, too.

Bill Walker

Then there was United victory over Brechin United. Nothing to get excited about there but with Collingwood coming to town Saturday, United had better be on their respective toes. Collingwood, as you know, and if you don't, you do now, is one of the teams being groomed to take United's spot in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

The other plum is a berth in the provincial finals of the Connaught Cup series. That game will be played on the mainland, naturally.

Saturday night there was a bit of a social do in town that deserves passing mention. (Details will be found on the women's page.) Lean Len Scott took himself a bride, Vera Ashe, and the club Sirocco was bulging with noteworthy athletes who saw the Shamrock rearguard and Mrs. Scott safely away. An out-of-town guest was Cyril Baker, who besides fathering a couple of well-known Bakers, Norm and Ralph, was once regarded as a pretty fair athlete himself.

A Tough Spot For Thrasher

Cyril was telling us that Mrs. Cyril is coming along fine during her current illness.

On Sunday the real bombshell exploded when Messrs. Johnson and Patterson of the Athletics kicked the Athletics into the basement (that's the fans' opinion) by selling Lillo Marucci for cold cash, which will be used to replenish the coffers sadly depleted by baseball fans spending their cold, hard cash in other places than the ball park.

Of course, being in Lillo's shoes, who would want to stay here anyway? The pay is higher in the Coast League and, after all, a ballplayer must have some ambition.

Personally we wish Big Mark success with the Beavers and at the same time welcome Arthur Thrasher into the fold.

Both Bill and Bob White (Bob is the youngest) know Thrasher and to put it in the vernacular say "he's one . . . of a ballplayer."

While we're on the subject of baseball, Patterson won't come right out and say it, but what he would like to do is trade off a couple of Marshall-type performers (and we don't mean pitchers only) for a good left-handed hitting outfielder and a pitcher. Portland has one hurler coming, the publicity release says, but so is Christmas and that's right smack dab in the middle of the hockey season. Lester Patrick can't use a pitcher, now can he? Mentioning the Silver Fox brings to mind that Fred Hutchinson, the Cougars' general manager, arrived home this week. Fred and Lester were both in Montreal for the N.H.L. meeting recently but they didn't see Roger Leger. As a matter of fact few people at Montreal have seen Big Rog since he left here. He's too busy with that development program of his at L'Annonciation, Quebec.

A Golf Champion Speaks

As far as we know, and Lester is the official source of this statement, Rog made only one trip to Montreal and that was to send that wire to us a month or so back. You remember the one which denied certain statements attributed to him about the odor of Victoria's climate. Incidentally, Roger drove 100 miles to contradict that report.

We have to work with these fellows, you know, so we can't pass up the Graphic Arts golf meet Sunday. Everyone had a good time including champion Tommy McLeod, whose winning statement was: "After trying to keep up with those long hitters for 13 years, I finally decided to hit 'em down the middle." Tommy goes about 146 pounds with his golf shoes on.

Manager Ralph Baker of the Shamrocks showed up at the dinner with a rumor in hand that Denny Huddleston was working at the shipyards here. Much as the Rocks would like to have Denny, "he isn't worth $50 a game," says Ralph. Ollie Corbett happened by during one lull in the conversation and reminded everyone within earshot that he won the first holding of the Jack Matson Vancouver Island handicap golf championship, which is something we didn't know, but can't forget now.

Mark Deserves Some Recognition

Then, too, probably everyone has heard the latest: They're going to cut the W.I.L. schedule in half and they're going to do it at a meeting in Spokane, Sunday. It's a two-team race right now so the vote likely will be 6 to 2. And isn't it a good thing that Marucci stayed around for a day or two? No catchers arrived from Portland last night and between games of tonight's double bill the club is going to give Mark his dues. "Farewell Marucci" is the title for the proceedings. And isn't it odd, too, that the A's showed more "spirit" last night than they have for some time. John will be back, though, and don't sell him lightly when he toes the rubber against his old mates.

Then there was the golfer in the Graphic Arts who said: "I've developed my game to such an extent that I don't have to worry about long irons any more." His score—103.

MARUCCI SECOND

Sinovic Holds Long Lead In W.I. Hit Race

TACOMA, Wash. (UP)—Outfielder Dick Sinovic, a veteran Western International League performer seemingly headed toward his best season with the willow, increased his lead in the circuit's batting race to 25 points last week, according to averages released here today by the office of Robert B. Abel, W.I. president.

Sinovic hiked his mark five points to .383, and his closest pursuer at .358 is Lillo Marucci, hard-hitting Victoria catcher. As of today, Marucci was scheduled to join the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League, which meant that Sinovic's margin would be increased still further.

Next in line were Edo Vanni of Spokane and Len Neal of Wenatchee, tied for third at .350. Vanni was up eight points from a week ago, while Neal had added four points.

Sinovic also retained his runs-batted-in lead with 53, six more than a week ago. Reno Cheso, also of Vancouver, and Ken Richardson of Spokane are second and third with 51 and 49.

WHITE RUNNER-UP
The home-run leader is Will Hafey of Wenatchee with nine. With Hafey apparently abdicating—he reportedly is quitting the game—occupants of a three-way tie for second place, Vic Buccola of Tri-City, Bill White of Victoria and Richardson are due to get more attention. Richardson clouted three four-masters in as many games at Victoria last week-end to climb into the dead-lock at seven apiece.

The leaders, including games of June 17, follow:

Sinovic, Van.	57	227	47	35	4	263
Cheso, Reno	56	207	38	4	354
Vanni, Spok.	55	237	90	31	1	350

'Rags To Richards' Sox In Stiff Test

Baseball's big question—how good are the White Sox?—may get its answer in the next 72 hours.

Opening with a doubleheader today, Chicago's "rags-to-Richards" club takes on the defending champion Yankees in an important four-game series in New York.

Both clubs rested yesterday as only six teams saw action. Cleveland moved a step closer to the American League leaders, outslugging the Red Sox in Boston, 9-7. Bob Feller, although hit hard, staggered to his 10th victory against one defeat.

Harry Taylor was the loser. The New York Giants nipped the St. Louis Cards, 5-4, in 12 innings and the Chicago Cubs shaded the Boston Braves, 5-4. The Giants trail the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers by 5½ games.

The Yankees must sweep the four games to displace the Sox at the top of the league, as Chicago leads by 3½ games.

CLOSE SHAVE
Feller was supported by a 14-hit attack yesterday and needed all of the safeties. He went into the last half of the ninth with a 9-4 bulge and appeared on the way to an easy win.

But Ted Williams received a free pass. Feller retired Vern Stephens but walked Bobby Doerr. Manager Al Lopez summoned Mike Garcia, who walked Clyde Volmer to load the bases.

Walt Dropo singled in two runs and Les Moss drove in another. Lou Boudreau walked to load the bases.

Lopez then called in Lou Brissie. The left-hander was superb, striking out the dangerous Billy Goodman and getting Johnny Pesky on a groundout.

OWNERS DON'T WANT REAL COMMISSIONER—CHANDLER

NEW YORK (UP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler in a hurried, surprise visit to discuss an anti-trust suit with his lawyer, said today "I don't believe the owners are really looking for a man to succeed me."

"I'm ready to resign after the all-star game in Detroit next month, but I am convinced they don't want a real commissioner," he said. "I am parting on the best of terms, and they accepted everything I asked for in my severance contract, but after I leave I don't have the slightest idea who will take over."

Chandler said he had talked to a number of prominent men, none of whose names he would mention, who had been approached by the owners' special screening committee, and that none of them would accept the job.

"They don't want limitations placed on them that the owners tried to place on me," he said.

TRACK TAXES TOO HIGH

Chief Justice Suggests Royal Commission Probe

VANCOUVER (CP)—Chief Justice W. B. Farris of the British Columbia Supreme Court Monday suggested a Royal Commission be appointed to investigate horse racing in B.C.

The chief justice was appointed arbitrator in the current dispute between the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association and B.C. Turf Club, operators of Lansdowne Track here.

The horsemen want $950 purses; the operators say $850 is their top offer.

The chief justice said in a six-page statement that the B.C. government takes too much in taxes, leaving track operators with less than enough to pay adequate purses.

If the ponies don't go at Lansdowne Wednesday—scheduled opening date for the 35-day meet—the government will lose $300,000 in taxes. A government "kickback" of $28,000 of this tax money, based on 1950 betting figures, would enable operators to increase purses to $950.

Scoring a total of $15 points, the rifle shooting team from the 75th (B.C.) Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment won the Gordon Highlanders trophy at Heals Rifle Range Sunday.

Canadian Scottish Regiment No. 1 was second with an 808 score. Four other teams were also entered.

High man in the shoot was Lieut. Hugh Thorburn of Canadian Scottish with 143 out of a possible 150.

Three Victorians In B.C. Golf Play

VANCOUVER (CP)—The top women golfers of the province—106 of them—teed off Monday in the qualifying round of the B.C. ladies' golf championship.

And by the end of the day's firing, par 78 was still intact. Only Mrs. Jean Knox of Marine Drive, playing on her home course, threatened par, carding an 82 to win medalist honors.

Babs Davies, also of Marine, was runner-up with 83. She is defending champion.

Last year's finalist, Mrs. Margaret Todd of Victoria, and Joyce Fairweather of Vancouver, shot 84½. Mrs. Todd had trouble on 13th and took seven blows on the par-five hole.

Only 16 qualified for the championship flight and match play begins today. Mrs. Todd will meet Mrs. R. Fenwick and Miss M. Todd of Victoria will play Miss Fairweather.

All Washed Up

A couple of T-shirts & a powder blue tie, for Father's Day... was my supply. "This tie," I said, "is a real knock-out." "Why... of course," replied Trude, "I picked it out. I KNEW you needed another blue, & I told the man to charge it to you. So he sold us these shirts, we hope they fit, he said they'd look better, than your loger's outfit." I put on my tie, & wore it to Church, felt duly honored as I sat on the perch. After lunch, (on beans we were fed), the white T-shirt I yanked over my head, & in the blue jeans I tucked it in, I looked like the hero, & the gal I could win. I went to the bathroom, my molars to whipl, 'twas there I heard that drip... drip... drip. 'Twas the bathtub tap, not the hot but the cold, I knew right away the washer was old. Down in the basement to my cluttered workbench, I found my screw-driver, and the big Stilson wrench. You'll find a bargain that's hard to beat, in this 2-Pc. flame colored Chesterfield Suite...

Now I've fixed lots of taps, a household chore, but I've never seen taps, like THESE before. Sleeve after sleeve, I'm telling you brother, that neatly fitted in one another. I got 'em all off, 'tho quite a bout, 'cept the one holding the washer... just WOULDNT come out. My fanny was sore, sitting astride, so I got IN the bath, again tried & tried. Then with the Stilson I tried to work faster, but all I did, was to smash the plaster. Trude burst in, her eyes fairly shone, "are you getting a bath, WITH ALL YOUR CLOTHES ON?" "Beat it," I sed, "or you'll get hurt." I smeared some blood, on my new white shirt. I put down the Stilson, lay flat in the tub, my knuckles were hurting, believe me Bub. Then I got up, in the plaster I stood, wondering if again... the Stilson I should??? I got real mad, & gave it a clout, when Lo & Behold... the thing came out. I reversed the washer from where I did sit, 'cause I didn't have a new one to fit. My hands were a mess, all gunk & dirt, which somehow got smeared on my lovely clean shirt. Now if getting it out, made me a hunch-back, I wish you'd have seen me getting it back. I got myself in such a heat, I even kicked it with my feet. Which knocked more plaster off the wall, my big toe hurt, I wanted to howl. But I got it together, last Sunday so clad, in a BLACK T-shirt, which was honoring Dad.

PROFESSOR TOO PURE

Fired For Teaching Girl Pupils Modesty

NEW YORK (UP)—A suspended sex hygiene professor, accused of giving "sensational and unwholesome" lectures at a city women's college, said today he was only "endeavoring to teach youngsters to be modest, chaste and patriotic."

Dr. William J. Fordrunk, a Hunter College faculty member since 1933, said he had tried to "teach my students to be modest and proper in dress and habits, not to comport themselves lewdly or lasciviously."

"I have tried to prove false, when the occasion arose, such concepts as free love and the use of the Kinsey report as the new standard of sex morality and the denial of the existence of God," Fordrunk said.

In announcing Fordrunk's suspension Monday night from the women's college of Columbia University, the board of education did not elaborate on its charges of sensationalism.

A board member said, however, that Fordrunk had made "loose and indiscriminate accusations against large groups of colleagues" and had attempted to plant his own views in the minds of his students.

BRIDGE LESSON

by Oswald Jacoby

I hope nobody writes in to ask me what North meant when he bid two spades in today's hand. He should have bid two no-trump to show his spade stopper and his general strength.

If North had made the normal bid of two no-trump, South would have gone on to game in no-trump. Then East would have led a low spade, and North would have taken his beating like a little man.

first trick. That would spike declarer's guns. South would sooner or later have to try the heart finesse to have any play at all for his game contract. Then West would grab the king of hearts and bang his remaining spade down on the table. East would take his five spades, setting the contract two tricks.

Opening lead—♠7

As things actually turned out South became declarer at three no-trump. West naturally opened the seven of spades, his highest card in East's bid suit.

The king of spades was put up in dummy and East came a cropper. He made a mistake that no reader of this column would ever dream of making. He played the ace of spades. (If you were dreaming of that play yourself, don't tell anybody.)

Now the East hand was good for two spade tricks and no more. South could afford to lose the heart finesse, and was bound to make nine or ten tricks, depending on the defense.

The trouble with East's first play was that he had no business winning the first trick. If his partner could never regain the lead, the game in no-trump could not be defeated. If his partner did regain the lead and had no other spades, the situation was equally hopeless.

The only chance was to let dummy's king of spades hold the Government Will Continue To Expand Parole System

Wisner Says Today's Youth Displaying Better Manners Than Earlier Generations

The province will further its attempts at rehabilitating youthful law-breakers without sending them to penal institutions.

This was indicated by Attorney-General Gordon Wisner in a Monday night radio address.

Probation officers had been appointed in many sections of B.C. and, said Mr. Wisner, "it is the purpose eventually to cover the whole of the province."

Under the system, the young offender was released on parole under such conditions as the court might direct, to report to the officer who acted as an advisor and friend.

"Headlines in the newspapers about zoot-suiters and others do not convince me that the youth of today has less moral fibre than in earlier times," Mr. Wisner said.

"In fact, in my view, young people generally today are better educated and display better manners than they did in the by-gone years."

Ends Water Shortage

CANMORE, Alta. (CP)—Rains and melting mountain snows have raised the Bow River level and are bringing surface wells back to normal, relieving the water shortage here. Policemen's Creek, a dry bed of stones for several months, is filling again as the spring at its source revives.

CAMEL DRIVER COVETED JOB

LONDON (Reuters)—Sixteen people Monday answered a newspaper advertisement asking for "camel driver, with experience of difficult animals in unusual situations." Dr. C. L. Hogben, who wants to demonstrate a crop-sprayer with the aid of a zoo camel named Joan, has narrowed the applicants to a short list of six and will make his final choice next week.

The origin of the many stone statues and platforms on Easter Island in the South Pacific has never been determined.

By ART STOTT

When you live on the bus line and the stop is only half-way down the block, you begin to lose your running form. It isn't important to develop your style and you don't bother jumping the last four steps from the porch for a flying start. You grow sedate in your locomotion.

There are times, of course, when you stumble out of the house in a flustered hurry, pulling on your coat, straightening your tie, hoping you've followed the biblical injunction and not left undone those things that should be done up. Still, as an influence on your physical condition, the close bus stop is strictly negative. It has taken the sprint out of the morning. It has its advantages, though. It lets the two slices of breakfast toast sit properly on top of the cereal and lets the coffee float down as it should. You don't convert your digestive system into the agitated pulp mill it used to be with the quarter-mile dash for the street-car.

ABOUT THE ONLY demonstration of that nature you see these days is from your bus window. Everybody doesn't live as close to the line as you, and there are still some who hit a neat pace racing to the corners where passengers are picked up. Frankly, the majority of these Johnnies-come-late haven't much style. Their body lean is usually all wrong, their strides are jerky, and the girls in high heels are still running from the knees down in a sort of Mix-Master action.

If you want to see real running, you'll have to go to the High School where the Y's staging its Centennial meet this evening with a lot of out-of-town talent. You can't depend for exhibitions now on the morning race for the street-car. That generation of athletes has passed.

Still, there'll be a fair show-up at the new cinder track. Bruce Humber and Archie McKinnon have been working to make the event stand out in the city's history.

IN CASE YOU passed up the provincial inter-high meet earlier this month and missed Jerry Belister's anchor stretch in the girls' relay, you'll be able to see the young lady again competing against Canada's best. Runs like that happen occasionally. They have to be seen. You can't read about them and get the reaction.

You see the runners stretched out with the leads their teammates have given them. You see a kid take a baton well back in the field. Then you see running, feet just skimming the ground. You watch the distance close up and the kid push ahead. At the back of your neck there's a cold feeling and the hair seems to be rising a little. If you haven't been yelling with the crowd, you'll find your breath explode at the finish. You've been holding it and didn't notice.

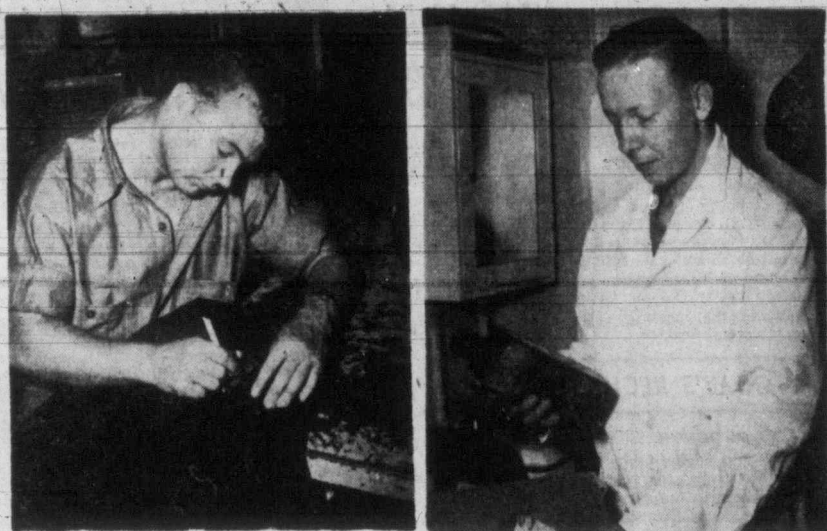

MAYBE MOST people don't take their track meets that way. The sane thing to do is to say to yourself: "Out there, on the cinders, people are running. Right here, I'm sitting comfortably in the stands. They're spending the energy. I'm just watching." Maybe some people can take it that way, but not me. I was exhausted just watching the film of the last Olympic marathon. My feet hurt when it was finished, too. And when it comes to the high jump, I nearly fall over, helping them to get up and across the bar. That gives me the exercise I've lost since they took the street-cars away.

There'll be stories within stories at the meet this evening. One of the local relay teams will probably be packing one of two batons that have a lot of sentiment attached to them. They aren't just short sticks that the runners pass from one to the other—and develop a pretty fair technique in the process of making the exchange. One of the batons is a souvenir from the Berlin Olympiad. The other is a little more precious.

IT'S JUST A piece of bamboo picked up a few years ago at a police meet in Vancouver. You could make one like it from almost any piece of bamboo. The difference lies not in its appearance or its structure. It is a difference of association.

Joe Addison used to handle that baton when he was running anchor for teams that included such stars as Bill Dale in days when the Flying Y was coming up to a position of importance in the track world. One of the awards at stake tonight is the Joe Addison Memorial Trophy. It will help to keep alive memories of a great track athlete and a boy who did so much to help other youngsters come along in a good, clean sport. But it won't have quite the close personal significance of the old baton.

AT BRENTWOOD College, they used to have a fine Latin motto, "From hand to hand," and the crest was a fist grasping a torch. There's something of the same symbolism in that old piece of bamboo. It has gone from hand to hand in a tradition that makes the race bigger than an ordinary relay.

Companies Mum—S.I.U. Sets Friday Strike Date

The A.F.L. Seafarers' International Union threat against British Columbia coastal shipping firms Friday midnight unless wage demands are met was silently received today by the three companies affected.

A strike would tie up 22 ships of Canadian Pacific, Canadian National and Union Steamship lines and hit hard at the province's tourist industry, which banks heavily on the coastal passenger trade. The threat came Monday night.

The 900 seamen involved are asking an additional $30 a month above the basic deckhand pay of $153. The companies' best offer so far has been $13.87, which the seamen turned down in a referendum.

There was no announcement from either camp about further negotiations but it appeared certain more bargaining meetings will be held before Friday. A meeting was scheduled for Monday but failed to materialize.

The union struck August 22 last year and won a $9 monthly increase after a 10-day strike. That walkout followed on the heels of settlement of the Canadian railroad strike.

A ship tie-up would mean virtual isolation of Vancouver Island and 100 up-Coast settlements.

Last year, an emergency airlift moved passengers and vital cargoes to fishing hamlets and lumber camps up the Coast and to most centres on Vancouver Island. Three small steamship lines operated on the lower coast within a 100-mile radius of Vancouver, but points farther north were cut off except for aircraft.

A strike would hit heavily at Victoria's tourist industry since most visitors bring cars and when this is impossible stay away.

Black Ball Ferry service by the Mv. Chinook between here and the United States ports of Port Angeles and Seattle would not be affected by a strike, nor would the Washington State government ferry service between Sidney and Anacortes.

Price Of Beef May Go Still Higher Soon

The price of beef may rise another three cents before the week-end, according to some city butchers.

Consumer resistance, rapidly crystallizing following union moves in Vancouver, may develop in concrete form at meetings here tomorrow night of the Victoria Labor Council (C.C.L.), and the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (T.L.C.).

Victoria butchers, speculating on the effect of a buyers' strike, offered little hope that it would bring about a reduction.

"We're having to pay an extra two and four cents a pound, buying by the carcass," said today's beef price was the same as yesterday, two cents per pound higher than last week's prevailing prices.

Seek Playground

Residents in the Foul Bay and Leighton Road vicinity want a playground for youngsters of the district.

A petition signed by Dennis A. Young and 48 others was received at the City Hall today suggesting 14 city-owned lots in the area be set aside and developed as a playground.

Esquimalt Legion Branch 172 will hold a general meeting Wednesday night at 8 in the hall, 622 Admirals Road. Other activities during the week include the Esquimalt Girl Guides tonight at 6:30; the Ladies' Auxiliary Thursday night bingo and Frank Fairless entertaining on the piano Friday night.

NEW FISHING LAW IS SHOCK

Victoria Sportsmen, Others Rap Salt Water License Requirement

A Dominion government order-in-council, effective June 27, imposing a fishing license requirement on salt water sport fishing in parts of B.C. came as a shock today to Victoria sport fishermen.

The order-in-council refers to the tidal waters at the heads of Rivers' Inlet and Phillip's Arm, which are described "as among the finest tyee fishing spots in the Pacific area."

The fishing regulations were amended on June 7, the department of fisheries announced.

The order says that fishing on River's Inlet from Aug. 1 and Sept. 15 and at Phillip's Arm from June 1 to Oct. 31, shall not be allowed except under license. It also states that catches shall be limited to three salmon per day and that licenses may be obtained from the fishing officer or guardian on duty at each of the two areas. No fee is charged.

"The move comes as a complete surprise to me," said Roger Monteith, Victoria sports fisherman. "It is a precedent to demand licenses for sport fishing in salt water, and it is a matter which ought not to have been passed without a public investigation."

"I would like to know who made the recommendation that these inlets should be put under license," he continued. "Any recommendations of this sort should come from the sports organizations and not from individuals. This has not been done in this case and we shall have to make inquiries. We must guard our rights very carefully."

Summer is definitely here, Mrs. L. W. Johnson, 128 Wellington Avenue, reported today.

She spotted a hummingbird near her home. It was the first reported this season.

Health Head Raps Garbage Situation

Dr. J. L. Gayton, medical health officer for Victoria and Esquimalt, has suggested that municipal officials and councillors exercise closer control over garbage disposal in Esquimalt in the future. He hinted there had been some "penicypinching" figuring in recent complaints of rats near "The Transfer," where the municipality dumps garbage.

The light rapping of fingers came in a letter Dr. Gayton has sent to Esquimalt Council.

The health officer noted that proper methods of disposal have been discussed with Esquimalt officials and council members at various times but "since proper dumping and covering involves some extra expense, our suggestions have not been followed."

Resultant complaints, he continued, place the officials and councillors in an unfavorable position.

Dr. Gayton said files at "The Transfer" can be eliminated by proper spraying, and the rats in the area north of the dump controlled through co-operation of the residents and the rodent control officer.

"But improper dumping of garbage should cease at once," he said.

RELEASES REPORT

Dr. Gayton also enclosed a copy of the report on the rat complaints drawn up by chief sanitary inspector Elwood S. Gropp, and advised Esquimalt to carry out the latter's recommendations.

The inspector reported a close check of the dump indicated the rat population was at a minimum, but that flies were swarming over the area because proper material was not being used to cover the garbage.

He warned of the fire hazard resulting from use of sawdust instead of dirt as a cover for the refuse, especially when hot ashes are underneath.

IN COURT

John Lauder, 1155 Fairfield Road, was fined $35 and Douglas Bowers, 1416 Bay Street, was fined $30 when they pleaded guilty to operating cars without being holders of 1951 driver's licenses.

Leonard Hutton, 107 Lady-smith Street, was fined $15 for creating a disturbance by shouting on Lady-smith Street.

David W. McDonald, 2050 Milton Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving and was fined $35. He was involved in a collision with a parked car on Wark Street recently.

PROVINCIAL James Williams, Langford, was sentenced to seven days in jail and his driver's license was cancelled for two years when he pleaded guilty before Magistrate A. I. Thomas, Monday, to a charge of drunken driving.

Hearing Possible On Bus Fare Boost

A public hearing may be called by the Public Utilities Commission on the application of Vancouver Island Coach Lines Ltd. for permission to increase fares on Up-Island runs, as a result of a protest that has been lodged by the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association.

The P.U.C. will study the protest sent to the commission's superintendent of motor carriers at Vancouver over the signature of George Bonner, Cobble Hill, president of the ratepayers' group.

Charles Barrie, local superintendent of the fisheries department said he had not received a copy of the order-in-council and could shed no light on the matter.

"The two inlets are inaccessible to the general public," said Mr. Barrie. "They can only be reached by those who have yachts."

George I. Warren of Victoria and Island publicity bureau and secretary of the Campbell River Tyee Club said: "I am worried about this move. If it is allowed to go unchallenged we may find the government trying to impose license requirements on other fishing grounds such as Campbell River and Saanich Inlet. We have always resisted such attempts."

Drought Crippling Many Island Farms

Southern Area May Be Hit By $100,000 Loss If It Continues

South Vancouver Island is suffering from one of the worst droughts in years which is threatening farmers with losses totaling over $100,000, it was learned today. The bone-dry earth is causing crops to wither, turning green grasslands parchment-yellow and increasing fire hazards in farming districts.

New Up-Island Fire Causing Heavy Damage

Fire which destroyed 4,500,000 board feet of felled and bucked logs near Jeunes Landing in the Quatsino district of Vancouver Island was brought under control today but another fire at Eden Island near Alert Bay was causing heavy damage, B.C. Forest Service reported.

The new fire on Vasseur and Bryant logging operations has destroyed 80,000 feet of logs and one donkey engine.

The fire was being fought by company men. Eden Island is four miles long and two miles wide.

The Jeunes Landing fire was brought under control by 100 loggers working in the district. The forest service said it should be dormant by Wednesday. The fire covered over 14,000 acres.

First suggestions for a canal between the Atlantic and Pacific at Panama were made by Spanish engineers as early as 1530.

B.C. Opens Experiment To Rehabilitate Youth

The eyes of penal officials in many parts of the continent turned toward British Columbia today where a novel experiment in rehabilitation of youthful law-breakers was started.

Eleven young men serving sentences up to one year at Oakalla Prison Farm walked out of their barred cells into "the great outdoors" where they will work out the remainder of their terms of "imprisonment" on forestry projects.

The "communion with nature" plan of reform was suggested at the last session of the Legislature by Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney, and it was taken up by Attorney-General Gordon Wismer.

Last week the Justice Department at Ottawa approved the plan and today the specially selected group of 11 young offenders were under the care of Robert Deidall were flown from Vancouver to Penticton Mr. Deidall is a young U.B.C. graduate in social work chosen for the job by E. G. B. Stevens, chief probation officer.

From Penticton the youths were taken by bus to Kettle Crossing where they will live under canvas at a forestry camp working on road construction, trail blazing, fire prevention work in the woods and other matters related to forestry.

The boys have been outfitted from head to toe for life in the woods.

It is hoped the program can be expanded in future years so that more boys can be taken from Oakalla and put to work at forestry camps.

The camp to which they have gone is operated the same as high school forestry camps. The young offenders will be paid $3 a day and board, the same as students at the other camps.

PROBE TENDERS FRIDAY

Year's Low Tide Will Be Recorded Here Tomorrow

The moon, the sun and other natural phenomena will combine forces tomorrow morning at 10:32 to bring about the lowest tide of the year to Victoria.

The tide will be .02 according to hydrographic figures—a low which occurs rarely in this district. Many rocks and stretches of sand along the shore line of Greater Victoria which normally are hidden from view will be exposed when the tide pulls out.

To the majority of Victorians the low tide will mean "smells," especially in the inner harbor. The stench from the harbor's muddy bottom is sometimes almost unbearable when it is exposed to a hot sun.

The low tide will also effect navigation. Ships will have to move out to deeper waters and will have to avoid short cuts where normally they had two or three feet of water to spare.

NO LAW AGAINST IT Lumberjennies Welcome

There was puzzled and amused reaction by both management and labor today to a suggestion by the Nanaimo Council of Women that women go to work in the woods to ease the present labor shortage.

Some hard-boiled woods bosses went so far as to say the suggestion would never work.

In Victoria, Ed. Haw, organizer for the International Wood-workers of America, admitted the suggestion seemed strange to him, but added:

"If the employers hire them, we'll take them into the union and see to it that they receive the same pay as men."

The I.W.A. already has many women members, most in cook-houses and plywood plants.

There is no law against women working in the woods.

French Pottery! But Yes, It's Simply Magnifique!

By PENNY SAVER

Madame housewife: Eet eez weeth great plezure that thees girl Sou... that's French for Penny. I teenk... tells you of the arrival of Henriot Quimper French provincial pottery.

There is a rustic charm about it that makes it suitable for any type home. The price too, has quite a bit of charm. Cup and saucer sells for $1.75, salad bowl $2.95, and tea pot, $4.50. These are just a few of the many standard and novelty pieces that come in this attractive wear.

While we are on the subject of china, here are a few more articles along this line that I found in my travels.

Vases, at their peak of popularity just now, are appearing in many new shapes and sizes. Many are a challenge to the bright summer flowers and even when the blooms are dead the colorful vases will add to your room. Most start at $1.

A real pet of a table decoration for mealtime and handy when making a salad are tall bottles which resemble a wine bottle, but are divided in two, one side for vinegar, the other for oil. They are decorated on the outside with neutral and colored wicker. Yours for $2.40.

If lots of space is not your fortune the tea pot, sugar and cream all stacked one on top of the other is just the thing for you. These cosy sets are perfectly safe and show no inclination to topple over. Set costs $3.25.

I looked once, thought I saw a log cabin, looked again, and saw that when I lifted the roof it was a cookie jar. The cabin costs $2.95, cheese dish to match, $1.50, toast rack $1.25.

Appropriate for your summer table, or snacks in the garden, are salt and pepper shakers, still china, which are topped with a blooming china rose. Selling at $2.50.

Here are just a few plastic gadgets which will add to the convenience of keeping your house neat. Only nine cents is needed for a plastic soap rack that will keep your soap in place instead of skittering all around the basin or tub.

Now that salads are so popular plastic serving spoons joined together like scissors are just what you need. They are 29 cents and work like a charm.

MARY HAWORTH

Wonderful Girl Spurns Old Sidekick When She Sights Somebody New

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: What would you suggest doing about a girl who is the most exciting and wonderful friend in the world until she meets someone more interesting? After that she is positively rude; she procrastinates, breaks appointments and generally makes a chump of me.

I have known her most of my life and she always has been like that. When she has nobody else in view she is a charming, congenial, devoted companion; but just let someone else come along, and she is childish, sarcastic and most unkind. Each time she has returned to me with apologies, which I feel she means, as she seems most sincere; then after a while she lapses into the old routine rudeness.

In other years I didn't notice her variable behavior so much, as I had other friends to fall back on; but now most of my old friends have married, and I really depend quite a lot on Ann. I once had visions of us growing old together, but now I know it wouldn't do to count on her. However, I can't treat her as badly as she treats me, because I think too much of her. Please give me the benefit of your good advice.

K.F.

WRITER A VICTIM OF EARLY DENIALS

Dear K. F.: Your letter suggests, between the lines, a life of quiet desperation, as the saying goes—lived out according to early memories of deep frustration in the closest relationships of your childhood. If your presentation of your problem with Ann had been prepared with a smidgen of psychological insight, or with a co-operative desire to help me figure things out, I believe you'd have seen fit to include some general information about your background and immediate circumstances.

As a homely start towards self understanding, you might try writing down, in note form and as rapidly as possible, the thoughts that come to you spontaneously, when you are reflecting on your difficulties with Ann; or upon the events of the past 24 hours. This method of self study can be very revealing, in proportion to the degree of interest you can maintain. Any effort at selecting or editing your thoughts will cancel the instructive quality of the notes, however; so report your thinking process as impersonally as if you were a recording machine.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD A. FREEMAN

Victorian Claims Bride In Mainland Wedding

Vancouver shared interest with Victoria in the marriage that united Rachel Shirley Mahood, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mahood, 764 Yale Road East, Chilliwack, B.C., and Richard A. Freeman, only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Freeman, Brentwood Bay, Canon H. P. Barrett officiated at the evening ceremony in St. Mary's Church, Kerrisdale, Vancouver.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a lustrous white slipper, satin gown fashioned with lace bodice, closed from the neckline to waist with tiny buttons, and lily point sleeves. Traditional orange blossoms were arranged

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Should Mother Have A Job To Provide The Luxuries

Two letters before me bring up questions of motherhood. The first is from a man who signs himself "a wandering husband"—not "wandering."

He says, "I read your column every night and so does my wife. Do you think it is smart or wise for a wife who is the mother of a youngster to work just so she may have little luxuries which she could not buy if she did not work or because she is bored with housework and had much rather be out among the public?"

"When a man works, makes a comfortable income, has a small family, owns his home and has no large debts, I think the woman's place is in the home. Do you agree?"

"I do not see how any woman can give her children a normal life and be a good housekeeper and put in six or possibly eight hours a day at another job. Maybe I am wrong. Please answer this in the paper."

This is a complex question because women differ so much. I do have some definite ideas about it though. In the first place I think it is a sad mistake for a woman who has a small child to leave it all day long in other hands while she works at a regular job, unless this is absolutely necessary because of money. She is missing so very much happiness and her child is, too.

On the other hand, I do not feel that a mother should be with her child constantly whenever it is possible to arrange otherwise. The companionship is too apt to turn into constant nagging discipline rather than fun. Both mothers and children appreciate one another more when time—or at least some time—together is planned for and wholeheartedly enjoyed.

The constant care and companionship of very young children is wearing no matter how much a woman loves her children. If possible arrange for a few hours away when you leave your child in good hands. If a mother can do work at home and does not have to punch a time clock that is different. She should also develop hobbies and individual interests.

A mother writes: "I am a very much married woman but because I act young with my children, age nine and twelve, people are always saying to me: 'Why don't you grow up?'"

Go on and have fun with your children and stay young with them. Those who say that to you are either jealous or kidding.

Panama Importer Praises Work Of Canada's Trade Representatives

Canada's trade representatives in Panama and the countries of South America are doing "a grand job" which will, no doubt, be reflected in increased exports, in the opinion of Robert G. Leigh today, an importer from Panama City who has been holidaying in Victoria.

A cousin of Col. H. T. Goodland, 3075 Cadboro Bay, Mr. Leigh is accompanied by his wife and two daughters, Ann, 20 and Margaret, 13.

"I think Canada has a great future," said Mr. Leigh, who is Danish Consul at Panama. "Her trade representatives are really trying to drum up trade in Panama and South America. They are introducing new merchandise down there."

His own business is the representative of one famous Canadian whisky manufacturer.

The Leighs say they have found the climate here just right and enjoyed every minute of their first visit to Victoria.

"I hadn't seen my cousin, Col.

Goodland, since I was a boy in England," said Mr. Leigh.

Leaving Panama May 9, they went by boat to New York and then motored across the United States, running into some "cold weather, which we are not used to."

"We are great admirers of your climate—it has a nip in the air."

The Leighs left for Vancouver today where they will be joined by Col. Goodland for a motor trip to Portland, San Francisco and thence home.

Goodland, since I was a boy in England," said Mr. Leigh.

Britain To Ban Fix Of Manufacturers' Prices

LONDON (AP)—The British Government revealed today plans to knock the props from under price floors erected by manufacturers.

The Board of Trade announced that legislation will be introduced in the Commons to outlaw price fixing of any produce—except for maximum prices.

The Board of Trade listed two main objections to price fixing, which is widespread here. It said:

1. By eliminating price competition between shops with different levels of costs, it prevents price reductions with different levels of costs, it prevents price reductions which could and should be made; and
2. The "collective punitive action" by which most fixed retail prices are enforced amounts to a private system of law which in effect is outside the jurisdiction of the courts.

The proposed British law would cover all industry and trade except cases of "exceptional conditions."

LONDON (Reuters)—The King, now convalescing from inflammation of the lung, today cancelled a two-day visit to Wales scheduled for next month.

The Queen will carry out the planned program on her own. It includes a visit to Cardiff July 18 for Festival of Britain celebrations.

The King Monday night approved the itinerary of next year's royal visit to Australia and New Zealand, indicating his doctors' belief that he will be fit enough by then to undertake the arduous tour.

There had been widespread speculation since his recent attack of influenza and during his present prolonged convalescence that the tour might again be postponed.

WILBUR DO ME A LITTLE FAVOR, WILL YOU? THIS FAVOR OF MY WIFE'S FATHER—WILL YOU GIVE IT A LITTLE RETOUCH JOB? CAN YOU AIRBRUSH THE DRESS AND MUSTACHE OUT OF THIS—IS A YOUNG PHOTO OF HIM—AND TO LIKE TO GIVE HER A NICE ONE OF HIM FOR HER BIRTHDAY...

JUST A LITTLE FAVOR—ONLY ABOUT THREE DAYS' WORK—8 TO 5 HIS FRAU'S BIRTHDAY—DO NOT WANT TO RUSH YOU, BUT...

TAKE OUT THE DRESS—PUT A STRAW MOP OF HAIR ON HIM—BUT LEAVE THE MUSTACHE, AND IT'D BE A PICTURE OF BATSFY'S WIFE...

I ASKED BATSFY FOR A CIGARETTE ONCE, AND HE GAVE ME THE "NEITHER A BORROWER NOR A LENDER BE" ROUTINE...

AIRBRUSH IS RIGHT—BATSFY'S GOT THE HOT AIR AND HE'LL GIVE WILBUR THE BRUSH WHEN IT'S TIME TO PAY...

Four-Legged 'Wishing Tree' In Last Days

BRIDGEWATER, Mass. (UPI) —

Many years ago, Eleazer Carver created the four-legged tree by chaining four young elms together to form a living arch over the gate of his home. Generations of children have referred to it affectionately as the "wishing tree."

DOCTOR SAYS

By Dr. Edwin P. Jordan

Two correspondents have recently written letters which indicated that they were much confused about agranulocytosis, granulocytopenia and the relations between these conditions and various forms of leukemia. The white blood cells and certain drugs. As soon as laymen start tossing around terms like these, they are bound to get bewildered. All of them are related to the white blood cells or leukocytes. Everyone has these cells in the blood, where they perform an important function: particularly in combatting infection wherever it may strike the body.

There are several kinds of white cells; the number can be counted and the kinds studied, the latter by smearing a small amount of blood on a glass slide, staining it and looking at the smear under a microscope. Normally there are about 7,500 white cells in a cubic millimeter of blood and there is a fairly constant relation between the different kinds of cells.

In the presence of infecting germs the number of white cells is usually increased and counting them is often an aid in diagnosis of appendicitis. This increase is called leucocytosis.

But sometimes the number of white cells is decreased below normal and this is called granulocytopenia. This can be serious if infections arise, simply because there are not enough cells to fight the germs.

Many cases of granulocytopenia have resulted from drugs. This is a puzzling thing because it is only the occasional person who gets such a reaction, but it does seem to be a sort of individual poisoning. Recovery usually takes place. Agranulocytosis is also a condition in which the number of white cells is lessened and this is usually ushered in with a sore throat.

RELATION TO LEUKEMIA

So far as is known, neither granulocytopenia or agranulocytosis is related to leukemia. In the latter some of the white cells grow wild; they are generally increased in number—sometimes enormously—and appear in the blood in immature and abnormal forms.

The acuteness of the process and the special kinds of cells present determine the particular name attached to the leukemia and influence to some extent the outlook.

This is by no means a complete discussion of the questions asked, but perhaps it will help the inquirers to know why they were confused.

Plumbers Discover Way Of Rating TV

PITTSBURGH (UP).—Plumbing contractors have their own way of judging the popularity of a radio or television program.

This was brought out at the recent annual convention of the National Association of Master Plumbers in Pittsburgh.

Philip C. Hering, Jr., Philadelphia, a member of the organization's board of directors, said:

"The popularity of a radio or television program can be judged by the pressure in a city's water system.

"Plumbing contractors, in answering calls for emergency repairs, have found that water pressure in city mains is invariably highest when people are listening to their favorite radio or television programs.

"The obvious explanation is that at such time, water-using activities reach their lowest point," Hering said.

Finland's timber industry exceeds in value that of any other European country except Russia.

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Groucho Marx Not Worried Over Future Of Comedians

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP).—"This is the age of the octogenarians," observed Groucho Marx.

He was referring to the age of many of the top-notch comedians, including himself, Jack Benny (39?), Jimmy Durante, Eddie Cantor, Fred Allen, George Burns, George Jessel, etc.

"A lot of my contemporaries sometimes sit around and moan about the future of comedy. Most of them are middle-aged and they wonder where the new comedians are coming from.

"I tell them that as long as the money is good, new comedians will come along. Sure, they don't have vaudeville to give them experience, as we did. But they'll come from night clubs; they'll even crawl out of the woodwork. Come to think of it, some of them have."

Groucho cited some of the young comics who may replace those of his generation: "That fellow Herb Shriner is terrific. I like Jack Carter; he's a little Eddie Cantor and middle Milton Berle, but a great mimic. And then there's Lewis and Martin. And don't forget Danny Kaye, Danny Thomas and Jack Carson, they're still fairly young."

Groucho, himself looking youngish, is currently wearing a job's uniform for "They Sell Sailors Elephants." He and Bill Bendix portray sailors who who Marie Wilson.

I mentioned that most comics complained that TV was hard work.

"Not for me," he replied. "In fact, it's the only thing in my life that doesn't give me trouble. I get trouble from everything else—my family, my home, my cook, my agent, getting pinched by the police."

"Of course, I was lucky to hit on a show that is a cinch for me to do. I couldn't stand doing one of those hour-long shows like Durante and Cantor, with all that memorizing."

Blind Doctor Still Practices

REGINA (UP).—Dr. R. C. Maryfield said a dimly-remembered tip from a professor enabled him to continue his medical practice even though he has been blind since 1939.

Dr. Maryfield said after he became blind, he recalled a professor's words that diagnosis was based 70 per cent on case history, 20 per cent on touch and 10 per cent on sight. He said he worked toward eliminating that 10 per cent.

The doctor studied braille and typewriting and gradually regained his self-confidence. Then he sold himself to his patients, building as large a practice at Regina, Sask., as he had before he went blind.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Too much sometimes may prove to be far worse than not enough for us.

Farmer Brown's sugar house is small. All that that little house was for was to make maple syrup and maple sugar. For the rest of the year it was seldom used.

A person very fond of sweets is said to have a sweet tooth. All the teeth of a bear are sweet teeth. The sweeter the better.

Two disobedient little cubs, Buster Bear's small son and small daughter, were in that little sugar house.

Such a mess! Those little bears had upset everything that could be upset. A big glass jar full of syrup had been broken. This of course was what these little bears had been looking for. They licked up that syrup as fast as two greedy tongues could lap. While doing this they had walked in the syrup, and afterwards those sticky little feet had left stickiness wherever they went. They had found a big ball of soft maple sugar and promptly fell to work stuffing it into their mouths with eager little paws.

After a while they began eating more and more slowly. You see those two little tummies were swelling out like two little balloons. Those little black imps had had enough long before they stopped eating. When they just couldn't eat another mouthful they climbed up on a bunk on which Farmer Brown's boy used to sleep when he stayed nights during the sugar season. Now that their tummies were full they were sleepy.

Presently first one, then the other, began to whimper and cry. There were little yelps. Those little tummies were too full and now there were pains in them. They had had too much of everything — too much syrup, too

Due to a so-called atletic quality of the sun's rays in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas, florists use cool houses instead of hot-houses. They shade tender plants and flowers under a canopy of palm fronds.
